In regard to the statement made by Yarde-Buller on the witness stand that one night his wife insisted upon going to the Alhambra Music Hall and afterward to the Café Cavour, a resort frequented by gay people, respondent said Yarde-Buller took her to the Alhambra and later left her to pay for their supper at the Café Cavour. As she did not have enough money to foot the bill, swoman who had been supping at another table in the same place came to her assistance.

other table in the same place came to her assistance.

Mrs. Yarde-Buller denied having committed adultery with Valentine Gadsden. She had employed Gadsden to look after her affairs and protect her from her husband's violence, paying him a guinea a day. Gadsden, she 'admitted, had been living in the same house with her since December last. The respondent was asked whether she did not think that continuing to live in the same house with Gadsden would destroy her reputation. She replied: "That was thoroughly impeached when I took the name of Yarde-Buller." After some corroborative evidence, the case was again adjourned.

English Socialists Harden Their Hearts Against Foreign Anarch-ists Because of the Noise the Lat-Make-Yesterday's Hurly

LONDON, July 28.—(By Atlantic Ca-LONDON, July 28.—(By Atlantic Ca-ble.) The International Socialists and Trades Union Congress resumed its session today at St. Martin's Town Hall, with Herr Singer, the German Socialist, presiding. The credentials of all delegates were closely scrutinized at the door, several being rejected and the bearers denied admittance. An-archists became furious, and after fiery remarks from the leaders made a combined rush for the door, overturned the doorkeeper and poured into the galler-les in spite of all opposition. stormy scene of yesterday.

Tom Mann and James Kier Hardie, the English labor leaders, spoke in favor of at least admitting Herr Hindman. Their remarks were wildy appared by the Anarchists. Other English labor leaders made speeches aginst admitting the Anarchists.

This brought forth a storm of disapproval from the latter. Few blows and many angry words were exchanged.

Eventually, orders were given out to remove the disturbers of the peace, and when some show of doing so was made, order was restored and the debate resumed for and against the admittance of Anarchists. It was agreed that properly-accredited Anarchists, including Louise Michel, should be permitted to be present. After several hours of additional discussion, the congress voting by nationalities, upheld the Eurich resolution by 18½ to 2½, the iffect of which is to exclude Anarchists. Interesting Talks with Mark Hanna on the Campaign.

National Headquarters Chosen at New York City.

Will Have Six Weeks' Advantage the Democrats in Active Work in the Empire State – Some Who Will Be Called into Conference.

(BY THE TIMES SPECIAL WIRE.)

NEW YORK, July 28.—(Special Dispatch.) Mark A. Hanna, chairman of the Republican National Committee, demonstrated today that he is a busy man. He arrived from Cleveland on the fast mail at 10:25 o'clock and drove to the Waldorf Hotel, spent about twenty minutes in greeting a few politicians, joilled reporters, waded through letters, took a cab to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's building at No. 1 Madison avenue, opposite the Fifth Avenue Hotel, and by 12:30 Fifth Avenue Hotel, and by 12:30 o'clock had selected offices on the fourth floor there for the Republican national headquarters, and struck a bargain on the price. Tomorrow the In answer to questions, Hanna said

Executive Committee of the National Committee will hold its first meeting. "I am reluctant to talk on the plan of the campaign until after the meeting of the Executive Committee tomorrow afternoon. I expect Senator Quay, Powell Clayton of Arkansas and Scott of West Virginia to be present.

Manley cannot come. I have also invited several other gentlemen to be present, including Lyman, chairman of the State Committee of Massachu-setts, and Plunkett of Adams in that State. There will be others whom I do not care to name fust now.

Among these it is said are National Committeeman Frederick S. Gibbs, Cornelius N. Bliss and possibly Chairman Hackett of the New York State Committee. Continuing, Hanna said:
"It is the province of the Executive Committee to formulate a plan of campaign, and I do not wish to announce in advance of their meeting what my ideas on the issues are." From other things which Hanna said, it is evident, though, that both Maj. McKinley and he have reached the conclusion that the burning question of the campaign s the currency issue. While acknowl edging that to be the case, and ready to shape the campaign accordingly, both believe that the financial and tariff questions are more or less in "The kind of money people are to have is an issue, but so is the need that money enough shall be raised by revenue to pay the expenses of the government," said Hanna. "Mind, I government," said Hanna. "Mind, I do not mean by this that there must be a high tariff, by any means.

He continued in a strain which indi-cated that both he and the candidate believe in a protective tariff that will raise sufficient revenue for the present enormous expenses of the government. Hanna said there had been much crit-leism of McKinley to the effect that he stands merely for a high protective is the only candidate who does represent the sound-money idea."

It is evidently Hanna's idea to impress on the business men of the Eas the fact that the managers of the Mc Kinley campaign are alive to the im-portance of the money issue; that they do not purpose dodging it, but will meet it with documents and on the

ANOTHER INTERVIEW. NEW YORK, July 28.-Mark lanna, chairman of the Republican National Committee, arrived from Chiago. He said he could not give any butline at present as to his movements while here. He was asked if he had come East to consult with the Advisory Committee.

"There is no Advisory Committee," he replied. "I am going to advise with every man who knows more than I do and there are probably a good many othem." I expect Quay here tonight and Hobart will come over tomorrow and Hobart will come over tom In the afternoon we will have a lng of western members of the mittee, and we hope soon to we hope soon to have things moving."

Mr. Hanna announced during the afternoon that the city headquarters for the National Committee will be established in the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company building at Twenty-third street and Madison avenue. The headquarters will occupy the greater part of the fourth floor of the building, and will be opened for business on Thursday.

part of the fourth floor of the building, and will be opened for business on Thursday.

During the day and evening Mr. Hanna had many callers. Among them was Fred S. Gibbs, the national committeeman for this State. He accepted the invitation to attend the conference of the Executive Committee tomorrow, Mr. Hanna was asked whether Gibbs came from Platt. He said: "I presume that in one way Mr. Gibbs represents Mr. Platt. No, I did not see Mr. Platt today, and I have not invited him to the meeting of the committee tomorrow, and I do not expect that he will come up. But see here, why draw Platt's name into this thing? I am chairman of the National Committee. There is a factional fight in this State. It is not my purpose to add fuel to the flame. I recognize no faction and I believe that all good Republicans are working for the good of their party. The meeting is for the purpose of planning the campaign in this section. I shall remain in town for the rest of the week at least and then return to Cleveland. Of course my time from now on will be devoted to the campaign."

now on will be decided by paign."

When Mr. Hanna read of the action of the Democratic State Committee in maintaining silence over the Chicago ticket, he said: "Well, if they keep this thing up, we won't have much opposition. The action today means that there will be nothing done in New York."

State for Mr. Bryan until after September 14 at the very milest. We will, therefore, have practically six weeks' advantage of them in active work."

During the evening a delegation from the Tariff Reform League called on Mr. Hanna and asked that he make tariff the issue, instead of the money question. Mr. Hanna said that he could not decide that question, but that the delegation could send a, representative to the meeting tomorrow and the question could then be answered.

Senator Stephen B. Elkins and Melville E. Ingalis of the Big Four Railroad were with Mr. Hanna during the evening and Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, president of the Woman's Republican Association of the United States, called and advised Mr. Hanna to have the campaign headquarters located in the West. Mr. Hanna told her that he would be pleased to have her attend the meeting tomorrow.

Mint Director Overloaded with Demands for Information. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

WASHINGTON, July 28 .- So num ous are the questions brought to the Treasury by every mail, seeking infor-mation relative to financial and cur-rency matters, that the overworked clerical forces of the Director of the Mint have been totally unable to answer them. All available copies of the re-port of the Director of last year, which contained tables and information and which answer large portions of the queries, have been exhausted, and at last the department has hit upon the device of printing circulars containing in succinct forms statements of facts relative to the coinage, bullion production, circulation per capita in various manners, and such information as will meet the needs of the many persons who are now seeking facts on which to base convictions respecting the issues of the campaign. The matter embodied in this circular has been carefully considered and has the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. It is expected that the circular itself will be received from the printer for distribution about the end of the week.

Senator Stewart of Nevada, who returned today from attending the St. Louis Silver and Populist conventions, said that he saw no propriety in the Populists communicating to Bryan what occurred at St. Louis or asking him to accept their nomination or platform. Such a course, he added, could have no other object than to embarrass the candidate. Vice-Chairman Apsley of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee has returned from a strip to his Massachusetts home, and relative to the coinage, bullion produc-

of New England.

The Republican campaign handbook will be out in a few weeks. The finishing touches are now being put upon it, and the last of the material will go to the printer this week. It will be a voluminous document, replete with information for campaign workers, and will deal with the financial and tariff questions in a comprehensive manner.

Samuel McKinney kept a boarding house at Cecil for the accommodation of oil men and miners. The house was situated on the banks of Miller's Run, a tributary of Chartler's Creek. Ordinarily the run, which flows through s valley bank by the way of high hills, would scarcely float a chip, but last night a cloudburst filled in its closely confined quarters to such an extent that

There were thirteen people in the Mc-Kinney house when the water com-menced to rise at 9 o'clock last night but no serious danger was apprehended. The men busied themselves carrying ho hold goods to the second floor and the female inmates of the house continued their dressing for the dance which was being held in a neighboring hall. Sud denly the house, a two-story frame, was washed from its foundation into the seething waters and rapidly carried down stream. It was then too late for anyone in the house to escape. Behundred yards, stands an old-fashione country bridge, which spans the stream. The house crashed against this structure, the roof was torn off and the rest of the building was crushed like an eggshell in being forced under bridge. Higgins and William Whitner were caught between the first and second floors. Higgins died there, but were caught between the first and second floors. Higgins died there, but Whitner made a most miraculous escape. Those on the second floor were badly squeezed. Just below the bridge, the wreckage of the house struck a sandbar and those of the party who were still alive clung to the pieces.

Thomas Hayes, Vincent Wilkinson and others formed a rescuing party. Whitner was rescued while fast in the wreckage by Wilkinson, who also dragged the dead body of Higgins from its lodgment. Samuel McKinney was also saved by Wilkinson. After assisting in other rescues, Wilkinson heard a cry for help from up the stream, and, notwithstanding the extreme hazard attached to the attempt, the brave fellow made the effort to swim across with a rope. When about half way over a log struck film on the head and broke his neck. His body was found several hundred yards below the place in a tree.

Clyde Beatty was another hero of the disaster who lost his life. He made strenuous efforts to save Margaret McKinney and Jennie Holmes, and had been lodged in a tree, when a wave came along and swept all three to death. Beatty had several opportunities to save himself, but refused to leave his weaker companions. Those of the unfortunate party who were rescued were taken from the branches of trees and parts of the wrecked house. Those who lost their lives were either crushed in the wreckage or knocked insensible by rapidly-floating logs. At Houtzedale, Clearfield county, Frank Brumbaugh was instantly killed by a stroke of lightning, and the Swedish church, used as a school building, was struck by another boit. Seven of the pupils were knocked senseless, four of whom are in a critical condition.

At State College, the mechanical art building was struck and badly damaged. At Cresson a Presbyterian church was struck and damaged. Similar reports come from all over the eastern section of the State. Damage to crops, barns and outbuildings was general.

A RAILROAD DISABLED. REPORTS FROM OTHER SECTIONS.

A RAILROAD DISABLED DENVER (Colo.) July 28.—The fact has just become known here that last Saturday's flood entirely destroyed the Catskill branch of the Union Pacific. Denver and Gulf road, forty miles in length, running from Trinidad, Colo., to the Maxwell land grant in New Mexico. It was known that the road was disabled, but the wires being down, the extent of the damage was not learned until this morning, when a party of inspectors came in.

So complete has been the destruction of the roadbed that the receiver said tonight that he thought the oil line would be abandoned and a new survey made over a more desirable route. The line is a valuable one, as nearly all the railroad ties used in this section of the country come from the vicinity of Catalill. DENVER (Colo.,) July 28.-The fact

THE BANKERS' PLAN.

Doubt of Its Success, Says the New York Herald. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE)

NEW YORK, July 28.-Referring to the plan to check gold exports, devised by the committee of foreign bankers and unanimously agreed to by the members of that committee, the Her-members of that committee, the Herald this morning says;

"The attitude of the bankers toward these customers, it is said, will be to simply assure them that there will be an abundant supply of bills in the market at low rates. Through discounting their own paper and establishing credits abroad to draw against, the international houses will be able to keep the exchange rates at a figure that will make gold exportation an expensive transaction.

national houses will be able to keeg the exchange rates at a figure that will make gold exportation an expensive transaction. "Although officials of the banks who deposited with the sub-treasury to restore the reserve disclaim any connection with the foreign bankers, it is generally admitted that the success of the one was made dependent upon the action of the other. Many of the bank presidents would not have parted with their gold had they not been assured that the foreign houses would arrange some plan whereby the metal might be retained in the country. They saw no use of paying it into the treasury, if it were to be as promptly withdrawn, and in consequence the foreign bankers' action was a necessity. "There has been considerable discussion as to the amount of exchange that will be necessary to tide over the interval of depression resulting from the agitation of the election. It may be $15,000,000, and it may—and probably will—be more. While the period that is considered necessary to make provision for is set down at sixty days, it is understood that, if the supply of cotton and grain bills in the market be not sufficient to adjust affairs within that time, then the pool will continue in operation for a longer period. The intention is to offset any sudden panic which may be started by demagogues during the campaign.

"The workings of the syndicate will, of course, entail inconvenience upon individual members, and possibly to some loss of profits. The latter, it is said, will be borne pro rata among the members. The firms that will manage the pool. or, as it will be called, the clearing house for exchange, are J. P. Morgan & Co., August Belmont & Co., L. von Hoffman & Co., Kahn, Loeb & Co., and Lazard Freres. The Brooklyn banks will fall in line today in an effort to maintain the reserve inaugurated by New York and joined in by Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago. The movement seems, therefore, to be infectious, and no doubt now remains as to its success and the wisdom of the movement."

Convilists at Fargo in Large Numer ical Quantities—Chairman of the Kansas State Central Committee Does not Approve of Fusion.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) LINCOLN (Neb.,) July 28.-There a well-defined rumor afloat in this city today that Nebraska will present ancandidate for President. J. Ster ling Morton, Secretary of Agriculture, has been in Nebraska for a week or more at Arbor Lodge, his farm home, near Nebraska City. It has been re-ported that he was here to check the tendency of Democratic Federal officeholders to gather about the Bryan free-silver standard, but it has been gener-ally reported in this city that he is here to pave the way to a Presidential nomination.

United States Dist.-Atty. Sawyer returned from Nebraska City last evening, and today the rumor spread that Morton contemplated announcing himself as a candidate for the Presidential nomination at the hands of the gold-standard Democrats. When questioned in relation to the rumor awyer declined to discuss it.

As a result of Morton's visit to th State the gold-standard Democrats will meet in conference in this city during the week to fix the date for a State convention and there is said to be no question that the convention will put forward the name of their Cabine representative for President.

DOES NOT FAVOR FUSION, DOES NOT FAVOR FUSION,

TOPEKA, July 28.—John W. Breidenthal, chairman of the Populist State Central Committee, does not approve of the plan of fusion in Kansas, as suggested by ex-Congressman W. A. Harris, and indorsed by ex-Senator John Martin, that is the Democrats to name the electors and the Populists to name the State officers. In conversation with a reporter, Breidenthal expressed surprise that Col. Harris and other Populist leaders had favored the arrangement referred to, and announced his intention of using his influence for the election of Bryan and Watson electors at Abilene, August 5.

"The Populists of Kansas," he said, "have but one course to pursue, and that is to stand by the action of the party at St. Louis. To do anything else would be bad faith, to say the least."

Asked what he thought about fusion on candidates for State officers, Breidenthal said that he was in favor of dividing the ticket with the Democrats, and believed that a conference committee could make the necessary arrangements without trouble. This stand the Abilene convention probable.

NORTH DAKOTA POPULISTS. FARGO (N. D.,) July 28.-The Popu-FARGO (N. D.,) July 28.—The Populaists are here in large numbers to attend the State convention tomorrow. There are a few "middle-of-the-road-ers" who want a straight party ticket nominated. They are, however, outnumbered, and the prevailing sentiment is largely for fusion. It is thought the Populists will demand the Cohmissioner, two railroad commissioners and possibly the Attorney-General. They will leave the other places on the ticket for he Democrats to fill in on August 17.

Herbert Root of Valley City and Dr. Bentley of Bismarck are being boomed tonight to head the Populist ticket for Congressman or Governor, whichever is alloted to them by the fusion committee. Everything depends on the action of the fusion committee and their slate will go through without any formidable protests.

HILL AND TAMMANY OPPOSED.

The Latter is in Haste to Ratify the SOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

CHICAGO, July 28.—A special to the Record from New York says Sena-tor Hill is now in favor of a third ticket. This information comes direc from a personal friend of the Senator who is a prominent Democrat. Th action of the Populist convention St. Louis is what seems to have caused Mr. Hill to come to a decision as to his course. The position of the Senator is thus outlined by the friend in question as follows:

course. The position of the Senator is thus outlined by the friend in question as follows:

"Mr. Hill has been between two fires from both factions of the party for some time. He could not indorse the Chicago platform, nor could he advocate the election of any candidate who stood upon it. The St. Louis Populist convention only served to widen the breach between the sound money and silver wings of the party, making it impossible to bridge, as the Western Democrats had practically affiliated with the Populists in everything but in name. You will find that when the Saratoga State convention meets, Mr. Hill will be against the Bryan ticket. The New York Senator is simply following in the footsteps of Flower, Whitney, Lamont and other eminent leaders in the Empire State." Senator Hill himself continues noncommittal, and the State committee, which meets at the Hoffman House today, will merely decide, it is said, to call the convention at Saratoga without indicating any line of policy.

All doubt as to Tammany's intentions concerning the Chicago ticket and platform has been set at rest by the issue of a call for a meeting of the Executive Committee Priday to arrange the details for ratifying the ticket. This step was decided upon by Martin and John C. Sheehan, in accordance with the expressed desires of thirty-two out of thirty-five district leaders of Tammany. Senator Hill and other leaders of the State organization have endeavored to induce Tammany to defer action until after the State convention, but the majority of the district leaders in the wigwam is opposed to any postponement and the ratification meeting to indorse the Chicago ticket will be held next week.

Chairman Lane said that while no arrangements had as yet been made for national headquarters, they would probably be located in Washington.

J. W. Blake, formerly chairman of the Pepulist State Central Committee in this State, and active factor in Nebraska Populism, thinks he can see a way out of the present entangling alliance with the Democrats and Populists, in the arrangement of the electoral ticket so that but one set of candidates will be necessary. His plan is the same as that suggested by Senator Jones, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. He says the selection of the candidates for the electoral college must be left to the good sense of the Populists and Democrats of the respective States.

"The Populists have nominated Mr.

Populists and Democrats of the respec-tive States.

"The Populists have nominated Mr. Watson," he said, "merely to preserve the identity of the party. Populists will not care, in most States, if all the electors put up in the joint ticket were Sewall men. This is especially true in the Northern States and in the Southern States it will make little difference of far as Bryan is concerned. Even far as Bryan is concerned. Even the vote on Bryan and Sewall is divided in the electronal volume and any doubt that the Sewall votes will be largely in the majority. The tickets will be put up in the respective States with the agreement that if the Democratic Vice-Presidential candidate has more supporters in the electoral college than the Populist candidate the votes for the latter shall be cast for the former."

In relation to the report telegraphed from Jefferson City, Mo., last night, as to the likelihood of Chairman Jones of the Democratic National Committee withdrawing Bryan's name from the Populist ticket, the nominee would not talk tonight. He was asked if he had consented to the withdrawal of his name, but said he would not be interviewed on the subject at all.

STUDYING THE COMBINATION.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Thomas E. Watson, candidate for Vice-President on the Populist ticket, in a telegram from Thompson, Ga., to the Herald says:

"Our Executive Committee must decide the question of dividing the electors. If Bryan accepts our nomination and Sewall should retire the Texas Populists would probably be content with Bryan and Watson, even though Bryan did not indorse all the platform. I was absolutely sindere when I said I would not accept either place on the Populist national ticket. I thought our party would have no difficulty in naming a straight-out Populist ticket and I did not desire either place. I stayed away from the convention partly to avoid prominence, and the Georgia delegation had positive instructions not to allow the use of my name.

"After the convention met and fusion strength developed, it seemed that our party would be swallowed up by the Bryan forces, and to have gone into the Presidential campaign with no Populist on the national ticket meant death to the People's party. The Georgia delegation then telegraphed me, urging me to allow my name to be used to harmonize the factions and save the party. I consented, and will abide by the consequences. When I said I would not accept, I did not dream such a crisis could possibly come upon our party."

BALTIMORE, July 28.—Joshua Levering of this city was this evening officially notified of his nomination for the Presidency of the United States by the Prohibitionist party. Prior to the notification the Maryland Prohibitionists held the State convention and nominated electors in the various Maryland districts. They also paraded the streets of the city with banners and music, the line of march terminating at the Lyceum Theater, where the notification meeting was held.

The meeting was called to order by the Hon. William Daniel of this city, after which the Rev. Dr. J. E. Smith, also of Baltimore, offered prayer. Summerfield Baldwin, the permanent chairman, then assumed the gavel and introduced O. W. Stewart of Illinois, who, as chairman of the Notification Committee, delivered the address, informing Mr. Levering of his nomination. The latter read from manuscript his letter of acceptance, which is as follows:

"Such an honor is worthy the ambition of any citizen of this great nation, but to my mind it is to be doubly appreciated when tendered by the only political party which has had the courage to stand openly for the protection of the home, the womanhood and the childhood of our country against the ravages and destruction of the legalized liquor traffic. A Havana cablegram says the police, acting upon information received from a lady who owned a small hotel at Barabas, which was requented by insurgents and their families, arrested. Senora Larduy, her father, Juan Pablo, and her nephew, Benigo. They had with them three horses loaded with groceries, etc., and a quantity of cloth and dry goods, evidently intended for the insurgents. In addition, the prisoners were found to have flies hidden in their stockings. La Melchora, situated twelve miles from Santa Clara, has been burned by the insurgents.

The Lake Front Park problem at Chicago is settled. By a decisive vote Monday night the City Council decided to place under the management of the South Park Commissioners all the land new comprising and all that will be included in the Lake Front Park, located in the down-town district of the city, excepting the portion west of the Illinois Contral tracks and north of Jackson street. This is the portion new occupied by the Art Institute, temporary postoffice and other buildings. Among other things, the Field Columbian Museum was granted twenty acres for the erection of a building.

A special to the Denver News from Telluride, Colo., says it was rumored there yesterday that the miners of Marshall Basin and Savage Basin mining districts in that county were going to organize a miners' union at one of the mines last night. When the mine managers heard of it they got together and issued a proclamation, which will be posted at the principal mines tomorrow morning. It threatens with immediate dismissal any miners who join the union, giving for its reasons that a miners' union is a disturbing element. The proclamation is signed by the managers of the Tomboy, Smuggier-Union, Japan and Columbi Menona, the four largest mines in the feeted should a clash occur.

A Great Time.

(Chicago Post:) "Did Fisher have a good time on his little outing?"

"Yes, indeed. I only saw him for a minute and had no time to ask any questions, but I could se that the skin was peeling off from his nose, his neck was so sore from the sunburns that he could not wear a collar, his hands were blistered so that he could hardly use them, and he complained that he had rowed the boat until his arms were so lame that he couldn't hold a pen. Oh, he must have had a magnificent time!"

he Doctor Gets the Maximum Pen-alty Imposed by Lord Russell, He Expresses Surprise at the Leniency Shown.

GY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

LONDON, July 28.—(By Atlantic Cable.) Before Lord Chief Justice Baron Russell of Killow, Baron Pollock and Justice Hawkins in the Queen's Bench division of the High Court of Justice today, the trial of Dr. Jameson, Maj. John Willoughby, Col. B. Gray, Col. H. F. White, Maj. R. White and Capt. Henry F. Coventry, charged with violation of the neutrality laws in invading the territory of the South African rethe territory of the South African re-public, was continued, arguments hav-ing been concluded yesterday. Chief Justice Degan summed up to-

day. Lord Russell's remarks were dis ing been concluded yesterday.

Chief Justice Degan summed up today. Lord Russell's remarks were distinctly hostile to the defendants. He began by pointing out that none of the facts against the prisoners have been contested, and said there was no doubt in regard to their having taken part in or abetted the proceedings at Pitsani and Mafeking, where the invading forces were mustered preparatory to entering the Transvaal.

It was entirely unimportant, in the opinion of Lord Russell, whether the foreign enlistment act had been proclaimed at the places named in 1889. There was no doubt the expedition was military in character and whether it was aimed to overthrow the Transvaal government or force a change of laws in the republic, it was equally an expedition against a friendly state.

Lord Russell throughout summed up most adversely to the raiders, and concluded with submitting to the jury a series of questions difficult to answer any way but affirmatively. After an hour's absence the jury returned and answered all the questions in the affirmative. Thereupon the Chief Justice said that this finding amounted to a verdict of guilty, and he directed the jury to so find.

The jury in the Jameson South African case, found all the defendants guilty of violating the foreign calistment act. Dr. Jameson south African case, found all the defendants guilty of violating the foreign calistment act. Dr. Jameson was sentenced to fifteen months' imprisonment without labor; Maj, John Willoughby, ten months; Maj, White, seven months; Capt. Henry F. Coventry, Col. B. Gray and Col. H. F. White, five months,

The attendance at the trial of Dr. Jameson and his associates was never so large as today, and the greatest interest was manifested in the proceedings. The opening part of Lord Russell's summing up, however, and his two hours' recapitulation of the evidence was uninteresting and even Dr. Jameson and the other defendants. The latter, while the jury composed, with two exceptions, of elderly men, there was no doubting that they were ers.

The jury after having retired at about 4:30 o'clock returned at about The jury after having retired at about 4:30 o'clock returned at about 5:24 and the defendants were hastily summoned to take their places. The judges came in a few minutes later and the jury gave an affirmative answer to all the questions which had been pronounced to them by the Chief Justice, but they added a rider to the effect that the disturbances at Johannesburg were provocative. Lord Russell then directed that their answers were equivalent to a verdict of guilty. The foreman said that they were not unanimous upon that point, but His Lordship repeated his explanation and the jury consulted together for about three minutes and rendered a verdict of guilty. Dr. Jameson and his co-defendants were apparently unmoved. three minutes and rendered a verdict of guilty, Dr. Jameson and his co-defendants were apparently unmoved.

Sir Edward Clarke asked the Court's disposition to move for a new trial. When the judges returned Sir Edward Clarke said that, in view of the verdict rendered, the defendants refused to instruct for a new trial and expressed a desire to settle the case now.

In passing sentence, Lord Russell said that the verdict was given on evidence which no reasonable man would be able to disregard. All the defendants, he added, were men of position and intelligence holding positions under the Queen, and their crime had the gravest consequences, including death to some and injury to others, and what the future consequences of their crime would be, no one was yet able to foretell. Continuing, the Lord Chief Justice said that of all who took part in the raid the court must distinguish between them in the punishment awarded for their guilt.

His lordship then passed sentence upon the prisoners. Dr. Jameson was sentenced to fifteen months' imprisonment without labor; Maj. St. John Willoughby to ten months; Maj. R. White to seven months, and Capt. Henry F. Coventry, son of the Earl of Coventry, Col. R. Grey and Col. F.

H. White to five months' imprison-

H. White to five months' imprisonment.

Dr. Jameson, who had hitherto hung down his head, looked up proudly when the sentence had been passed, and the other defendants stared hard at the Lord Chief Justice. Soon after the sentencing formalities had been completed, the wardens of Helloway prison appeared and took up positions on each side of the prisoners.

This was the bitterest moment of all for the raiders, as up to that time they had been treated with the greatest courtesy and had in fact been made heroes to a certain degree. But when the elbows of the prison wardens touched those of the aristocratic free-booters they seemed to realize that the strong arm of the law had knocked all the romance out of the Transvaal diasco and that, come what might in the shape of easy treatment in prison, they were convicts in the eyes of the law and the eyes of society, to say nothing of the millitary authorities, who, it is believed, must now take action looking to depriving the prisoners of their commissions in the British army.

Then also ended the last chapter in tion looking to depriving the prisoners of their commissions in the British army.

Then also ended the last chapter in the trial of Doctor "Jim" and his associates. The court was ordered cleared, the audience filed slowly out into the streets, and the prisoners were essorted to Holloway prison. There was absolutely no demonstration in the courtroom when the prisoners were taken away, or outside when they were escorted to the jail.

The sentences imposed upon Dr. Jameson and his companions were very generally discussed in the lobbles of Parliament tonight. Contrary to the feeling manifested by the spectators and the sympathizing friends in the courtroom, the sentences were lighter than were expected by men in Parliament. It is recognized, however, that the sentences are more serious for the military prisoners than the mere term fixed for their imprisonment, since it is expected that they will be cashiered.

APPROVAL OF THE VERDICT.

LONDON, July 29—In commenting

LONDON, July 29.—In commenting upon sentence passed upon Dr. Jameson and his associates, the Graphic approves the verdict and expresses the belief that, after the Preliminary Committee has inquired into the raid, the crown will find it desirable to reduce the sentences.

The Daily Telegraph considers that the court has found a medium between indulgence and excessive vigor. An editorial in the Times says: "The indulgence and excessive vigor.

An editorial in the Times says: "The conclusion will commend itself to the general judgment of the country. The sentences vindicate the law without the appearance of vindictiveness."

Of the future action with regard to Cecil Rhodes, the Times says: "Mr. Hawkslee (solicitor for the British Chartered South Africa Company) writes us today that Cecil Rhodes is prepared to surrender for trial whenever the government requires it. This assurance will not cause surprise since Mr. Rhodes practically has no option in the matter. But it is doubtful whether the enlistment act even as expounded by Baron Russell, the Lord Chief Justice and presiding judge, could be successfully invoked to compel Mr. Rhodes to share his friends purishment. Mr. Chambzialm moves tomorrow for a committee to inquire into the administration of Rhodes and an important discussion will ensue. The committee will be empowered to review every part of the Chartered Company's transactions."

The lobby correspondent of the Chronicle says of the sentences: "Among the members of the House of Commons there is the strangest variety of opinion, varying from disappointment at the miliness to indignation at the severity of the sentences. Sir Richard Webster, the atterney-general, being asked, dismissed the idea that the prisonera would be treated as first-class inisdence and the severity of the sentences.

dismissed the idea that the prisoners would be treated as first-class misdemeanants and, except for the absence of labor, they will be subject to the oradinary prison discipline. I believe that Mr. Chamberlain was rather surprised at the severity of the sentences.

"As Dr. Jameson was leaving the courtroom many in the crowd tried to grasp his hand and shouted, "God bless your sir."

ou, sir."
The Chronicle also has an interview you, sir."

The Chronicle also has an interview with Dr. Jameson himself, in which that gentleman says he was surprised at the leniency of the sentence, after Baron Russell's summing up. He gald further that he and his friends had all decided to return to Africa as soon as their sentences had expired.

In an editorial the Chronicle says: "The sentence was merciful. At length the raid is reduced to its proper proportion. We are glad to be able to announce that Mr. Chamberlain has definitely promised to sit upon the special committee to investigate the administration of Rhodesia, but he desires that a perfectly impartial chairman shall be appointed."

An editorial in the Daily News says: "Baron Russell has rendered a high political service to his country by the strong, severe and masterful line he took with the case."

Under the existing treaty, the Japanese claim the right to vote, but the franchise has not been conceded them by the Hawaii-an government. YOUNG STETSON'S DEATH. Circumstances Leading Up to it Related in Court.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The inquest for the determination of the man-ner in which Albert L. Stetson met his was begun this morning. Dr. J. H. Farrell testified that he was sun moned at 1:30 o'clock, by Miss Head and Charles Hug. He found Stetson lying with his feet near the fireplace and a pistol near his waist. In reply to a question, Farrell stated that a little blood was noticed about the fin-gers of Miss Head, but only about the finger nails.

Charles Hug then told how he, Samuels and Stetson had met in a saloon, dined together and afterward attended dined together and afterward attended a performance at the Orpheum. Then they went to the Columbia Café for supper. Hug said that Stetson seemed nervous. The witness testified that when he saw Stetson after the shooting. Stetson was fully dressed. The bed in Webster's rooms seemed not to have been occupied for months.

Dr. George M. Terrell, who had also been called in after the shooting, testified that the ailment from which it was said Stetson suffered, cirrhosis of the liver, was usually due to alcholic excess and might cause dejection.

There was a stir when the next wifness, Frederick R. Webster was announced. Well-groomed and calm, Webster gave his testimony without agitation. He had known Stetson for some years and had been very friendly with him, but had never given him the entré to his rooms

"Miss Head, however, had the privilege of entering the rooms?" suggested a juror.

lege of entering the rooms?" suggested a juror.

"Yes," coolly replied Webster. "Her own rooms are just below. Mine had conveniences for keeping a dox, and I thought she might desire to keep one, and so, on going to England, I gave her my keys."

"What were the relations between Miss Head and Stetson?"

"Friendly, I suppose. They often spoke of each other to me."

"You would not have approved of their going to your rooms together?"

"Certainly not."

Mrs. Summerville, a friend of Miss.

"Certainly not."

Mrs. Summerville, a friend of Miss Head, told how she had gone to the Orpheum with Miss Head. She was asked by a juror to raise her heavy vell, but declined to do so. She told of Stetson exhibiting his pistol and her refusal to sit near him until the cartridges were removed. After supper cartridges were removed. After supper at the café Hug escorted her home after midnight.

F. S. Samuels, who was with Hug and Stetson on the evening before the millionaire's son died a violent death, corroborated the stories told by Hug and Mrs. Summerville.

Amy A. Head was an interesting witness. She wore a jaunty navy-blue walking suit, with a yellow straw hat covered with a black veil. She spoke rapidly, but appeared to be quite self-possessed.

ossessed.

After telling of her presence at the Orpheum, Miss Head said Stetson came to the box.

Witness said: "How do you do, Al? You are not looking well." Stetson replied: "Oh, I've been boozing, and am all broke up." Miss Head then told of the supper at the cafe and how she induced Stetson to remove all cartridges from his pistol but one. She said: "Is this not a five-shooter? Where is the other cartridge?" Then Stetson answered: "Oh, that's all right," and put the pistol back in his pocket."

The witness told the same story she has already given to the police and to the newspapers. She told her story machanically and glibly, as if she had committed it to memory. She seemed not a bit perturbed at her situation, and acted as if used to parrying words with men. Miss Head's narrative to the fury comprised a vivid story of a night in San Francisco.

It told of a young man of wealth, unfortunately rendered sick and nervous on a trip of pleasure with the woman who was the narrator of the story. When the supper party broke tup, Miss Head said Stetson volunteered to see her home. The witness said she must first go to Fred Webster's room to get her dog. Miss Head told how she worked the elevator in the building and entered Webster's rooms after I o'clock, in the morning.

After Stetson had wandered around the rooms for a while, Miss Mead said to him: "Come, Al; this is not going home." "This is the way I am going home, Amy," Stetson replied. "With that he placed his hand to his head." said Miss Head. "I heard a report and Al fell. I looked at him for a moment; then saw that he did not move and that there was blood on my left arm. After that I ran down stairs for assistance. Henry Toomey, a real estate dealer, said he had negotiated a sale of $12.500 worth of stock in a local mercantile firm a few days before the shooting for young Stetson, who did not seem in a hurry for the money.

After being out forty-five minutes the jury returned a verdict that Stetson came to his death as the result of a gunshot wound inflicted by himself during temporary aberration.

A SUSPICIOUS CHARACTER.

The Nevada City Posse Arrests a Painter Named Johnson. NEVADA CITY, July 28.—Most of the NEVADA CITY, July 28.—Most of the large number of armed men who went out yesterday afternoon to hunt the partner of the highwayman killed by Sheriff Douglass, have returned. No trace was found of him. All bridges and other crossings were guarded all night, but nobody appeared. A painter named Johnson has been arrested here on suspicion. He had been here about a month. Yesterday he borrowed a pistol to go out to look for the outlaw, and afterward said he was going to North Bloomfield to do a job of painting. When the posse was miles from town Johnson met some of the parties, told them he had been stopped by a man a short distance above, and ordered to turn around and go back.

He notlified the men where it happened, and soon about sixty mea were drawn up in a skirmish line and were beating through the brush, Johnson going with them. Nothing was seen of the man described, and the officers finally concluded he was misleading them for the purpose of giving the real desperado a chance to get out of the country. Johnson acted so queerly that he was arrested. It is supposed he knows something about the actions of the man who was killed by Sheriff Douglass and of the one who made his escape.

OTHER PARTICULARS.
GRASS VALLEY, July 23.—Last night hundreds of men scoured the hills in the vicinity of where Sheriff Douglass lost his life Sunday, without avail. The assassin accomplice of the dead robber had fully fifteen hours leeway of the posse and made good his escape, possibly never to be detected. The only description thus far advanced of himis furnished by John Blamoy, a bus man between here and Nevada City, who met the dead robber and supposed accomplice near Gold Flat last Thursday or Friday. Blamoy says he is a stout, heavy-set man, 5 feet 10 inches in height, with a full, round face, dark hair, and brown moustache. He wore a dark-check coat and probably weighs 170 pounds. The inquest on the dead robber continued until about midnight last night. The only particularly new testimony was given by Mr. Dean, who lives 100 yards from where the shooting occurred. He says that about 4 o'clock Sunday he heard two pistol shots fired simultaneously. After a lapse of half a minute he heard another shot, much louder and more distinct as if from a a minute he heard another shot, much louder and more distinct, as if from a rifle. Undoubtedly the first two shots were fired by the Sheriff with deadly effect at the robber, and the third shot heard by Dean was fired by an accomplice. heard by Dean was fired by an accomplice. Two shots struck the Sheriff, but Dean says he paid little attention to the shooting, as hunters are continually in the neighborhood, and there might have been more shots fired. This testimony strengthens the theory very materially that Douglass was shot by a third party.

The bullets went clear through each of the dead men and the wounds are such as to make it impossible to determine whether one was killed by a pistol and the other by a rifle or not.

Marshal Getchell last night arrested a painter at Nevada City known as "Sleepy" Johnson, a recent arrival from Marysville, thinking he might possibly be the accomplice. Several times he had thrown the officers off guard, and was first on the scene after the discovery of the dead bodies by Deputies Neagle and McGrath. Last night he said that while on the way to Bloomfield he was met by an armed man whom he believed to be an accomplice of the robber, and was ordered by him to turn back to Nevada City. He says he did so with all haste. His actions were regarded with suspicion and caused his arrest, but there is not sufficient evidence to hold him, and he will soon be liberated.

arrest, but there is not sufficient evidence to hold him, and he will soon be liberated.

Today at noon Deputy Sheriff Pascoe left for Gold Run, having a suspicion that the escaping assassin crossed over the hills to that locality. The people of Nevada City and Grass Valley are much wrought up over the killing of Sheriff Douglass, and there will be a lynching in case his slayer is captured. The dead robber has been identified by M. L. and Sherman Marsh, lumbermen, as having worked for them last May. Also by Robert Latta, a liverman, who was held up by a highwayman, and many others who had seen him in various parts of Nevada county. It is believed he is an ex-convict who served three years in Nevada State Prison.

BAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—Sachiro Asano, president of Toyo Kisen Kaisha, the Japanese steamship company, arrived today from Portland and Seattle. President Asano was asked if his company had decided upon a terminal port on this coast for his steamship company. Through Kaiwa he replied that he had not. He said:

"Reports that we have selected San Diego as our port are not true. That we have been negotiating with the Santa Fé people, or people friendly to that company, to make San Diego our port. Is true, however. On the other hand, we have had similar negotiations with the Northern Pacific to make Tacoma our terminal, and with the Oregon Railway Company to select Portland as our port. We have reached no decision as yet. We are coming to this Coast. We want to come to the port that offers the best opportunity for business. We are here now trying to decide that question. That is all I have to say with the un-derstanding that I make no unfavora-ble criticism against anybody or any Pacific coast city."

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The Railroad Commissioners left tonight for San Diego. They are to meet in the Chamber of Commerce of that city on Saturday, to investigate a complaint against the Southern California Railroad of having abandoned its line through Temecula cafion.

VENTURA'S HEALING WATERS.

The Crystal Fountains and Fruity A lady of this city, who has been en-joying a good deal of pleasant idleness over in Ventura county, sends The Times a well-written but lengthy arti-cle on the medicinal springs in the vicinity of the Matilija.

Wheeler's Hot Springs are nineteen miles as the crow flies from Ventura, the San Buenaventura of our affections. You can't find them on a map, for they started into existence as a resort for pleasure and health seekers this summer. They are two and a half miles from Matilija, a permanent camp with postoffice and telephone facilities. The waters here have been healing dyspeptics and rheumatics for a dozen or more years.

Loosonice and telephone leading dyspeptites and rheumatics for a dozen or more years.

Farther up the South Fork of the Matilija the Lyons camp is fixed Mrs. Lyons, the owner of these springs, resides here, and the tent town, brown and blue and white, alights like a flock of pigeons about her when the summer comes. In front of her house are three old broad-spreading fig trees, and a dozen or twenty orange trees looking as though this native heath was fifteen hundred feet above sea-level, and in mountain fastnesses.

Fine-looking fruit is still hanging on the branches, and we watched from an ity-wreathed porch a pretty girl with sunset hair gather oranges for dinner.

A row of pepper trees, secondly, It think, for shade, and firstly for companionship to fig and orange trees, lines a driveway.

Wheeler's camp outrivals both of these just mentioned in present achievements and future possibilities. The basin in which this camp lies is about one half mile long and one-fourth mile wide. Its sides are mountain tops from 800 to 2000 feet high, green with chaparral and live oak.

The stream that flows through this narrow valley, has its source miles beyond the camp. Its roadbed is rocking and the camp. Its roadbed is rocking the protests there, and battles farther on, frolicking over ledges, and resting in quilet pools till at length, as the San Buenaventura River, it reaches its eternity—the sea.

Willow, sveamore, alder and juniper trees everhang the stream, affording a will be a supplied to the stream affording a tree overhang the stream, affording a tree overhang the stream affording a tree overhang the stream.

A great pressure of water can be obtained from the stream, and an enterprising company has offered to put up the necessary appliances to furnish electricity for light and other domestic uses.

the necessary appliances to furnish electricity for light and other domestic uses.

If you are not much of a mountaineer, the stage journey of nineteen miles may seem a little arduous, but children are equal to it, and are the last to get enough of this freedom of the mountains, and want to go home.

One section of the camp, composed of Los Angeles people, has adopted the sounding title of Bottleville, and distinguished itself by electing a whole set of city officers.

An ex-chief found clear sailing into the chieftainship of the Fire Department, and demonstrated his fitness for the place by extinguishing with great éclat and a garden hose, an incendiary fire in a brush pile. Health Officer. Chief of Police, justice of the Peace and various other functionaries found that their appointments were not simply honorary.

Police Look for Weapons in Posses sion of Chinamen.

Wong Chee, the Chinaman who was shot Monday night, was removed from the Receiving Hospital yesterday to his home at No. 759 South Hill street condition is about the same and Dr. Bryant says it will be necessary to wait until his tongue heals some before wiring his jaw.

Extra police officers were stationed in Chinatown last night and Chief Glass gave orders to his men to arrest every Chinaman who carried a revolver or Chinaman who carried a revolver or other weapons.

Officers Lennon, McGraw and Hill stood at the corner of Marchessault and Alameda street and searched every Chinaman who came into or left Chinatown. Wong Pli came along and Officers McGray Placette. town. Wong Pli came along and Officer McGraw stepped up and began to search him. The Chinaman endeavored to secret something which he held with his hand in his pocket. On investigation it proved to be a murderouslooking knife, made from a file. It was fully six inches long and the blade was as keen as a razor. Pli was sent to police headquarters on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, and as he was being led to a cell remarked that he lived out near Monrovia, and used the knife to peel potatoes. He was not allowed to give ball.

It was stated by the officers that every Chinaman in Chinatown had been searched, but no weapons had been found in their possession as they had evidently foreseen what was coming. Chinatown was quiet all night, and the Celestials are evidently waiting for the excitement of the recent shooting to die out befor taking any furthr action.

BROKE HIS COLLAR BONE. A Bicyclist Runs into a Chuck

TALK ABOUT WEATHER. How Crops Have Fared in the Past

The climate and crop bulletin of the weather bureau for the week ending Monday, July 27, as compiled by George E. Franklin, observer, reports: Generally cool, foggy nights and clear days prevailed in the coast districts during the past week, where light rains occurred in the early part of the week which were neither heavy enough to do good nor harm, except in the northern portion where quite heavy rain fell which did some damage to hay. No reports have been received from the eastern districts for this bulletin, but press reports show that thunderstorms, with heavy rains in some places, were quite prevalent in the mountains of those sections which resulted in replenishing the fast decreasing water supply for irrigation. Apricot drying is practically ended; beans and mustard are looking well; barley threshing continues, the crop is below the average but of excellent quality. The climate and crop bulletin of the barley threshing continues, the crop is below the average but of excellent quality.

San Luis Obispo city—The weather has been favorable. The grain harvest is about done with good returns. Beans and mustard are looking well. Heavy rain fell on the 22d, in the southern portion of the county, but no damage was done to grain. Highest temperature, 82 deg.; lowest, 55 deg.

Santa Barbara county—Goleta: About a quarter of an inch of rain fell on Wednesday, damaging some hay, but helping other crops. The weather still continues foggy and all-summer crops are looking splendid.

Ventura county—Bardsdale: The weather was warm and dry with occasional fogs. Beans still look better than average but need more fogs. The weather is beginning to affect the corn crop. West Satlcoy: The past week was one of much fog and on the 21st and 22d a very light rain fell which further advanced the bean crop that is looking very well. Fruit drying is practically over and the quality of apricots is better than usual. Highest temperature, 34 deg.; lowest, 64 deg.

Los Angeles county—Los Angeles city: A sprinkling rain, too small to measure, fell on the 21st; the remainder of the week was fair with generally cloudy or foggy nights and clear days. The temperature was normal or slightly in excess the first of the week, but the cloudy or foggy nights and clear days. The temperature was normal or slightly in excess the first of the week, but the rest of the week showed a deficiency as compared with the daily normals. The highest temperature was 84 deg.; lowest, 57 deg. Pasadena: Cloudy weather culminated on the 21st in a light shower which gave 9-100 of an inch of rain. The rain was heavy in the mountain sections and frequent thunderstorms prevailed. The weather was cooler the latter part of the week. Everything is suffering from the past dry winter.

LAST WEEK'S LATE REPORTS.

Everything is suffering from the past dry winter.

LAST WEEK'S LATE REPORTS.

La Cafiada: The weather was moderately warm, beneficial to trees and crops. Apricots about all gone; berries continue to ripen abundantly. Highest temperature, 99 deg.; lowest, 55 deg. Duarte: There has been but little if any change in the weather conditions since last report. Highest temperature, 99 deg.; lowest, 61 deg.

Orange county—Santa Ana: The weather was favorable for the last of the season's drying apricots, the yield is below the average. Walnuts are about an average crop? barley is being extensively threshed and while the yield is below the average, the quality is good. Corn is doing nicely. Capistrano: It is difficult to say anything regarding the crops coming in as the change of the weather from one extreme to another may alter the aspect. The outlok at present is for walnuts a fair crop; deciduous fruits short crop; oranges and lemons short crop; corn on land that can be irrigated will make a heavy crop. The weather keeps foggy in the morning and cool at night. Highest temperature, 78 deg.; lowest, 68 deg.

San Dlego county—San Dlego city: The past week was almost a counterpart of the previous one, though the temperature was 77 deg, and the lowest 65 deg. Traces of rain fell for a few minutes on the 19th, 21st and 24th, barely wetting the ground. Escondido: This section was visited by a shower last Sunday morning, accompanied by lightning and thunder.

Los Angeles county reports received too lats for body of this bulletin:

La Cafiada: The weather for the past week was favorable for trees, vines and vegetables. A light shower of rain, amounting to 7-100 of an inch, fell on the 21st. The highest temperature was 83 deg.; lowest, 58 deg. Verdugo; Cooler weather with one or two foggy nights during the past week enlivened vegitation, but the demand for water for irrigating purposes remains. Peaches are ripening, but the crop will be short, other fruits are much scarcer than usual this season.

Mr. Will J. M. McLaughlin of 614 Third street, Portland, Oregon, under date of July 31, 1895, says: "I have suffered for years with dyspepsia and disease of the kidneys, with a long list of distressing symptoms, causing chronic constipation, which was a source of constant annoyance to me. I had bloating of the stomach and was very nervous. I had to be very careful of my diet, and for the past six months I lived almost entirely on graham bread and change of climate, but it did no good. One day I picked up a magazine and saw an advertisement of Ripans Tabules and as a drowning man grasps at a straw, I bought a box and helped me some and I got another box and have some of them left. I am all right now an can eat anything I wish without the least distress. I always carry a few in my vest pocket. I never imagined that such a little thing would do so much good. I am enjoying the best of health and do not have to go to the mountains either. I recommend them to my friends whenever I get a chance, for I know they have been worth a dollar apiece to me.

(Signed)

[THE PUBLIC SERVICE.] IMPORTANT DECISION

Action Against Officials Under Wrong Section of Code.

Thurston Marriage Annulled—He Had a Living Wife.

Tax Levy Figures—Radical Reduc-tion of Last Year's Rate Can Be Made — Important Estimates of the City Auditor Completed.

At the City Hall yesterday the City Auditor completed his department es-timates for the current year and his estimate of the receipts of the city from other sources than a tax levy, the whole forming a basis for computation as to the probable tax rate, which the Council will fix very soon. The Police Commission held its weekly meeting, transacting a large amount of department business. The City Council met in adjourned session and directed the clerk to advertise for proposals to provide furniture for the courtroom of the new City Jail.

At the Courthouse yesterday Judge Van Dyke rendered an opinion dismiss-ing the action against the directors of Big Rock Creek Irrigation district, also the causes of the people against Almind and Schilling, Trustees of the town of Long Beach. Chema's examtown of Long Beach. Chewa's examination is in progress; he was seen running from the fallen body of Ochoa. Lopez is on trial for murder. Two criminal complaints were filed; John Burke charged with assaul6 with a deadly weapon; Ortega said to have committed burglary at San Gabriel. Thurston had two wives; the latter marriage is annulled by Judge York. Eleven new citizens were admitted. Four. informations were filed. The Murphys want $5000 for damages caused by a blast at Broadway and Sand streets in 1894. Bennett secured bonds yesterday and may enter upon the enjoyment of his honeymoon; he was married in the County Jail a few months ago.

AUDITOR'S FIGURES

FORM A BASIS FOR TAX LEVY FIGURING.

The Tax Rate Certain to Be Lower Than that of Last Year—Big Grist of Business Transacted by the Board of Police Commissioners.

The tax levy for the current year is certain to be lower than the rate of 1895-96. Just how much lower depends mainly upon whether the refunding bonds of the city can be disposed of, at the proper figure. Leaving these bonds out of the computation, it can be safely calculated that the citizens of Los An-geles will have a tax rate of about $1.25 on the $100 to pay during the current fiscal year.

The basis of this computation is found in the City Auditor's figures, completed yesterday and now published in full, for the first time. These figures include the Auditor's estimate of the amount required by each mu saistant Fire Chief May Be Charg with This Today. The case of Assistant Cnief Smith of the fire department is expected to come before the Fire Commission this morn-ing, upon the charge of "offensive par-tisanship."

"OFFENSIVE PARTISANSHIP."

before the Fire Commission this morning, upon the charge of "offensive partisanship."

Smith is holding office under a Republican administration, but took a prominent part in the Democratic ratification proceedings last Saturday night. He occupied a carriage in the parade, and a seat on the platform, shouted for "Bryan and free silver," and generally became so conspicuous that divers persons took note of his antics and wondered that the rule forbidding members of the fire department to engage in political conventions or demonstrations should have been so suddenly abrogated.

Several months ago, when politics was a trife warmer than at present, the Fire Commission found it expedient to issue an order, for all department employés, from the chief down, to refrain from mixing up in political "shindys." The order created a mild sensation, when it was promulgated, and one fireman-politician, Charles P. Harrison, was "bounced" by the commission for his offensive partisanship at a certain Third-ward primary.

Smith's case is understood to be under consideration by the Fire Commission, and will doubtless be brought up at the regular meeting of the board this morning.

Chief Moore, in discussing the matter yesterday, was inclined to view his assistant's break with a lenient eye, but remarked sententiously that "he (the Chief) would certainly not have taken such a part in the parade and meeting as did Smith." The assistant chief rarely "slops over" on politics or anything else, is conceded to be a brave and capable fireman, who ordinarily attends strictly to business, and nothing else. He is a rabid silverite, however, and his enthurisam is thought to have led him into a position of which he did not realize the unseemliness. He will probably be let off with a reprimand and cautioned against doing it some more.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

Detective Bradish Awarded a Generous Meed of Praise. The Police Commission yesterday received a request from the managers of the Peniel Hall, a religious headquar-ters on South Main street, to be allowed ters on South Main street, to be allowed to hold street meetings in front of the hall, for thirty minutes each evening. Appended to the petition was a paper, signed by nearly all the merchants of the block in which the hall is situated, testifying that the signers had no objection to the granting of the original request. As there is an ordinance regulating the holding of street meetings, the clerk was instructed to notify the Peniel Hall managers that the Police Commission could afford them no relief in the matter.

the clerk was instructed to notify the Peniel Hall managers that the Police Commission could afford them no relief in the matter.

Sergeant Jeffries reported to the commission that on the 25th inst. he suspended Officers Stephenson, Henderson and Arguello for a violation of the department rules requiring officers to report at the proper times. The Chief sustained the action of the sergeant, and the commission sustained the Chief, directing him to have the officers appear before the board at the next meeting to explain their conduct.

Lizzie M. Craig addressed the board in a communication, giving the information that she is the lawful wife of D. L. Craig, a police officer of the city; that in the month of May, last, she was ordered to leave his home, and fearing for her personal safety, did so; that since then she has been dependent upon others for her support. She desired the board to direct officer Craig to contribute a reasonable sum to her support. The matter was referred to the Chief, without discussion.

The board received the Chief's report on the applicantion of one Ballerino for a saloon license on Nigger Alley. Said the Chief: "The place to be used for a saloon is now the main entrance to the 'cribs' from the Negro Alley side. Directly back of the place for which the applicant wishes a license is the Basket saloon, fronting on Alameda street. I am informed that if the license is granted, two of the applicant's sons will be bartenders. So far as I know, neither of the said sons or the applicant has ever been tried in the saloon business in this city and consequently have no record in this line."

Upon the strength of this report, the board denied the application.

D. F. Donegan was granted permission by the board to do some blasting work on lot 18, block 4, of the Beaudry tract.

The Mayor brought up the recent killing of a burglar by Detective Bradish, and Chief Glass made a statement of the case to the board, complimenting the officer as a brave and efficient man.

Upon motion of Commissioner Long, Bradish was given leave of absence for ten days and allowed to draw full pay during his vacation.

Commissioner Cook called attention to the charges that were being made against certain officers, who were accused of talking to women of question. cused of talking to women of question-able character while on their beats. The Chief was instructed to strictly enforce the rules of the department on this question.

The application of W. J. Carlin for a saloon license at No. 109 Commercial street, was withdrawn and the following applications for licenses were referred to the Chief:

J. Nordstrom, No. 113 East First street; D. Curcio, No. 662 Buena Vista street, transfer from F. Gresia; P. F. Gibbons, on West Washington street.

Upon an adverse report of the Chief upon an application of Anton Stern for a liquor license at No. 128 Pasadena avenue, the application was deried. Tony Zorbe was granted a transfer of the license at No. 115 South Spring street from the firm of Gilmore & Zorb to himself. J. Mackel was granted a transfer of the license at No. 347 South Spring street from O. H. Kiefer to himself. The application of Ed Botello for a saloon license at Twelfth and Central avenue was withdrawn. A protest against this proposed saloon, signed by several hundred property-owners, was filed with the board.

The demand of Adam J. Kappes for a rebate of $50 on his liquor license was ordered filed.

A protest of the Title Insurance and Trust Company against the granting of a liquor license to E. J. Niles on New High street was referred to the Chief. The protestants allege that there are already several saloons in the block, and more would be detrimental to their property interests.

The former section provides for a case where the officer has been guilty of charging and collecting illegal fees for services rendered, or the refusal and neglect to perform official duties pertaining to his office. The refusal and neglect to perform official duties consists in knowingly, willfully and corruptly having done and performed certain matters and things contrary to law. Such misconduct or misdemeanor in office is covered by section 758. Section 722 is a summary proceeding. The party charged is not entitled to a jury and no provision is made, as in the other case, entitling the defendant to the process of the court compelling the attendance of witnesses in his behalf. CHEURA RECOGNIZED Hall Saw Him Flee from the Body of Ochoa.

Francisco Cheura, charged with the nurder of José Maria Ochoa, near Pas-adena, July 13, 1896, had his examination before Justice Young yesterday, the prosecution being conducted by Asst. Dist.-Atty. Williams. The most important testimony was Asst. Dist.-Atty. Williams.

The most important testimony was that given by Joseph Hall, a glazier of this city. On the afternoon of the day of the murder he went on horseback to the foothills near l'asadena to shoot rabbits. He met with poor success, and concluded to return by the Arroyo Seco in the expectation of firding game. Before he reached the bridge he heard some one calling, "Help! help! help!" mingled with the barking of a dog. His first impression was that the dog had some animal at bay, and rode rapidly toward the outcries and a cloud of dust kicked up in the road a few rods distant; suddenly his horse came to a standstill and a man ran toward him, but upon seeing him, darted off in another direction; he watched him as he fellow was "locoed." Hall now started his horse ahead and had gone but a few feet, when the animal became thoroughly alarmed and refused to proceed; looking ahead, he discovered a man lying in the road, face downward, but not completedly hidden from view.

Hall now rode back to the house of a Mexican named Avila and reported that a murdered man lay in the road; Avila was ushitching his horses, and, after some delay, placed a rope around the neck of one of his horses and rode back with him; as they went by the body he observed one of the man's arms raise up and down two or trace times, and asked Avila if he thought the man was killed, to which he replied. "Oh, he is dead all right, and I know who killed him; he is a good friend of mine."

Hall was asked if he would know the man that he saw running from the body if he was to see him again, and answered that he would, as the fellow passed within fifteen feet of him, looking him full in the face before darting away. He now pointed at Cheura and declared that he was the man.

Upon resching the camp in which the rema that given by Joseph Hall, a glazier were Valenzuella and Mrs. Ochoa, wife of the deceased, Cheura pulled off his shirt, put on a coat and departed within a few minutes. He hid his stained shirt, but it has ben recovered and is among the people's exhibits. Justice Young continued the cause until this morning, and issued an attachment for Valenzuella and Mrs. Ochoa, who are badly wanted as witnesses by the prosecution.

LOPEZ IS ON TRIAL.

First Cause in Los Angeles County on Preliminary Testimony. The trial of Manuel Lopez, charged with murdering Alvarado near Wilmington, was in progress before Judge Smith and a jury yesterday and will be concluded today.

Something new in the criminal prac-tice of this county has been introduced in this trial, the cause going to the court and jury on the testimony taken before Justice Downing of Wilmington township at the preliminary examina-tion. Deputy District Attorney Holton conducted that prosecution on behalf of the people.

The present prosecution is being conducted by Deputy District Attorney McComas. He occupied the witness box throughout yesterday in reading from the voluminous transcript and listening to his own voice and occasional objections from defendant's counsel.

The proceedings were extremely tiresome and nothing sensational has been developed. It appears that the deceased had been drinking and was quarreisome. Lopez requested him to let him alone, saying he did not want to quarrel; he started off and the man ran after him and when he grabbed him. a scuffle ensued; the murdered man fell in the street, and exclaimed that his intestines had been cut out. The cutting was done with a pair of shears, the man having been engaged in shearing sheep.

Defendant's counsel claim the shears were taken away from the deceased by

THE PRICE OF SILVER.

Advocates of free, unrestricted and independent coinage attempt to maintain the proposition that the great decline in the value of silver bullion during the past twenty-five years was due principally, if not wholly, to the act of February 12, 1873, otherwise known as "the crime of '73." By that act the standard silver dollar was omitted from the list of United States coins, the trade dollar being substituted for it. It is persistently claimed by silverites that the act referred to was the prime cause of the decline in the value of silver, and upon this contention is based three-fourths of their arguments for free silver coinage.

This assumption of the silverites is a fundamental error. As there preminess to word their contracts in such a ises are based upon error, their deductions from those premises must necessarily be wrong. The act of 1873, while it may have had some slight effect in depressing the price of silver bullion, did not exert an important influence in that direction. In point of fact, it opened the way to an extensive use of silver by authorizing the coinage of the trade dollar. And during the five years following the alleged "crime" of 1873 about thirty-two million trade dollars is made in the wrong way in the were coined. These trade dollars financial or revenue systems of the absorbed four times as much silver as country it is always the poor man dollars during the entire eighty years preceding, or since the establishment of the United States mint. In other words, nearly as much silver was coined into trade dollars in each of the years from 1873 to 1878 as had been coined during the entire eighty years preceding. It is altogether probable that more silver was coined into dollars by reason of the alleged "crime" of 1873 than would have been coined had the old law remained in force. In 1878 the Bland-Allison law went into effect, which provided for the still larger use of silver.

The real cause of the depreciation in the value of silver is a commercial reason-vastly increased production. The world's annual average production of silver from 1851 to 1860 was 13.1 million ounces. During the period from 1866 to 1870 it had increased to 27 million ounces; from 1881 to 1885 it rose to 72 million ounces; in 1887 it was 75 million ounces; in 1893 it had reached 140 million ounces; and the estimated product of 1896 is about 190 million

The depreciation in the value of silver bullion has steadily kept pace with the increased production, year by year. The inexorable law of supply and demand governs this matter, and is more potent than all legislation in determinng the price of silver. Legislation, in fact, is powerless to reverse the usages of commerce, though it may modify

The total number of electors a fixed by the Constitution, is equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives, in Congress. There are 357 members in the House of Representatives and the Senate has a membership of 90. The total number of electors is therefore 447, and 224 votes constitute a majority of the electoral college. Candidates for President and Vice-President must therefore receive not less than 224 votes in order to be elected. The mud-slingers are now dragging in the piety of Mr. Bryan's father, just as was done in regard to the religious belief of Mrs. Bland and Mai. McKinley before Bryan was nominated. This is a very poor way to make political capital for any party whatsoever. Up to date these jests about Mr. Bryan's father have been confined to the Cleveland organs, and Republican papers have declined to sully their columns with such hogwash. Let it be that way to the end of this campaign. We contend that this is a man's fight and want to see all the Republicans do battle on fair lines.

At midnight he was taken violently ill. His physician asked him significantly if he to commit the superlative folly of tywas afraid to meet his Maker. 'No.' he said, 'not exactly afraid, but very into the depths of repudiation and much ashamed under the circumstances." That is about the way those who voted for the free coinage of silver will feel the day after elec-

> England's anxiety to conclude blanket treaty with America probably comes from the fact that France is trying to put her over a barrel in Egypt, while Germany is stirring up trouble with her in South Africa, and the Russian bear is snarling and sucking his paws while contemplating a raid upon the land of Akbar. It was, therefore, quite politic for Lord Salisbury to regret the Venezuelan incident, and to tender his apologies to the ghost of James Monroe, deceased.

The Baltimore Sun is authority for the statement that a large number of Maryland farmers fully believe that Bryan, if elected, will make their property worth sixteen times its present valuation. If the Sun recognizes the real mission of a newspaper to be that of an honest public servant, it will endeavor to be frank in disabusing those bucolic gentlemen's minds of that false impression before election day comes around.

The City Council has referred to the Finance Committee the motion of a member that a sign reading "City Hall and Public Library" be placed on the front of the municipal building. There is probably no truth in the rumor that this action was taken because some ill-informed persons supposed the house with the big tower was an up-town branch of the Southern Pacific offices.

Maj. McKinley says: "Our trouble s not with the character of the money that we have, but with the threat to debase it. We have the same currency that we had in 1892, good the world over, and unquestioned by any people. Then, too, we had unexampled credit and prosperity." How favorably such a statement compares with all that has been said in favor of the free coinage of silver.

Has the interstate commerce law been repealed? Or has it merely been set aside to please the railway magnates, who find it occasionally inconvenient? Every once in a while we hear about "an agreement to prevent rate-cutting." Now, what is the meaning of such an agreement, or does the anti-pooling law mean anything at all?

The Omaha Bee says: "For so young a man Bryan has written and spoken a tremendous pile of stuff that he doubtless now wishes unwritten or unsaid." There is no doubt about that, but even if he might desire to forget it, it is just as well that the people should, in the meantime, remember it. It will assist them in knowing how to "keep off the Thousands of conservative Demo crats might vote for Bryan and free silver if they could do so without voting for Altgeldism and anarchy. But the latter are so inextricably mixed up with the Chicago platform that they cannot be separated from it; hence all truly patriotic Democrats will be forced to vote for McKinley.

Utah will cast her first electoral vote this year and will undoubtedly cast it in favor of the double standard. With her countless memories of Brigham Young, who was in the habit of getting married early and often, how could she well be expected to vote for a single standard?

An interesting communication was received from William V. Lanphar, giving a table of the import and export trade of nine American ports from Magdalena Bay to San Blas. OLD ANON.

Whither are We Drifting? LOS ANGELES, July 28, 1896.—(To the Editor of The Times:) An incident has just come under my notice which is significant. A negotiation had been made for a loan of $3500 for the pur made for a loan of $5000 for the purpose of putting up a certain building in Los Angeles. The papers were ready for signature when the borrower noticed the usual form, "payable in gold coin of the United States." He straightway demanded that the wording be changed to "lawful money of the United States," saying, "I might have to pay 47 per cent. premium for the United States, saying, have to pay 47 per cent. premium for gold by the time this falls due." The lender replied: "I might have to receive 'lawful money,' which is worth only 53 cents on the dollar." This transaction is off; the building will not go up; the material will not be sold the labor will not be required. If this is the shadow of what some of our per ple would fain consider "events," what would the reality

Value of Our Minerals.

THORNTON FITZHUGH.

(New York Mail and Express:) (New York Mail and Express:) It is a matter of no little interest at this time to ascertain the relative commercial value of the principal mineral products of the United States. The official sta-tistics on this subject for 1895 afford the basis for the following list in the order of relative importance:

Petroleum
Gold from American mines...
Copper from American mines.
Building stone
Silver, value
Natural cas

It seems that the aggregate value of our mineral products last year was about $582,000,000. In this list of ten items, silver constitutes less than one-eighteenth of the total value. The one-item of pig iron represents three times item of pig iron represents three times the value of the silver production, and silver becomes insignificant when compared with coal; still no one clamors for the free coinage of either pig iron or

"white metal."
So it seems that the pig-iron men, the coal men and copper men have even a better right to demand that their respective metals be made the money standard of the country than have the silver men.

William Preston Hill in Cleveland World:) Macaulay, the great English historian, wrote nearly forty years ago:
"The day will come in the United States when the multitude, distressed by hard times, will be called upon to choose a Legislature. On one side is a statesman preaching patience, respect for vested rights, strict observance of public faith.
"On the other are demanageues ranting for vested rights, strict observance of public faith.

"On the other are demagogues ranting about the tyranny of capitalists and usurers. I seriously apprehend that the people of the United States will in some such season of adversity do things which will prevent prosperity from returning; that they will act like people who should in a year of scarcity devour all the seed corn and thus make the next year a year, not of scarcity, but of absolute famine. There will be. I fear, spollation; the apollation will increase the distress. The distress will produce fresh spollation.

"When a society has once entered or this downward progress there is nothing to stop it. Either civilization or liberty must perish. Either some Caesar or Napoleon will selze the reins of government with a strong hand or your republic will be as fearfuly plundered by barbarians in the twentieth century as the Roman empire was in the fifth; with this difference, that the Huns and Vandals who ravaged Rome came from without, while your Huns and Vandals will have been engendered within your own country by your own institutions."

Are we in this country, about to within your own country by your own institutions."

Are we, in this country, about to verify this gloomy prediction? The hard times are here, and also the demagogues advocating the act of spollation. With every species of falsehood and misrepresentation they are urging repudiation of one-half of all our debts by a sudden and revolutionary debasement of our coin money and a lowering of our standard of value. With inconcivable audacity before this great and enlightened nation they dare, in support of their false doctrine, to arous the worst passions engendered in the human breast; to denounce all wealth as mere conspiracy; to array class against class; to excite the poor against the rich, and to sow the seeds of anarchy and discontent.

Are we prepared to enter on this downward course where the great historian has told us either our civilization or our liberty must perish?

The efforts to adjust the affairs of the Mt. Lowe Railway Company without resort to the courts have at length proved unsuccessful, and the road will probably pass into the hands of receiv-proved unsuccessful, and the road will probably pass into the hands of receivers today.

The compact entered into by the creditors four weeks ago provided that no legal proceedings should be commenced by any of them provided 90 per cent. of the claims would join in the proposed arrangements. The Creditors Committee assumed control of the road, hoping to get enough of the creditors to sign the agreement to make it a success, but in this they failed. The assent of the required 90 per cent. of claims was not obtained. Prof. Lowe then brought forward his scheme outlined in The Times of July 24, for refunding the floating and bonded indebtedness of the road. But many deemed this plan impracticable, and for several days it has been growing more and more apparent that a receivership would be inevitable.

The crisis was precipitated when it was discovered that some one was secretly buying up the unsecured labor claims against the company. As this was thought to indicate breakers ahead, the Creditors' Committee determined to forestall any hostile action and themselves institute legal proceedings. Accordingly, at their request, an attachment against the Mt. Lowe Railway was filed in the Superior Court Monday afternoon by Craig, Stuart & Co., whose claim, amounting to $3300, was for supplies furnished to the Echo Mountain House. The programme was to confess judgment yesterday morning in this attachment suit and then ask the appointment of a receiver. When court opened the attorneys for the interests of Prof. Lowe should be

As this plan meets with the approval

Lowe Railway Com-pany, and their validity has therefor been questioned, but it seems to be the opinion of the attorneys who have examined into the matter that these in regularities were not material, and can not affect the lien of the bonds. In any event, no serious issue can be raised on this point at present, for the bondholdceedings until after eight months' default in interest. As the interest is only one month in arrears, nothing can be done before March 1, 1887.

It is only in this way that the silver movement will accomplish anything for its promoters. It will enable debtors to pay out 50-cent dollars where they owe 100-cent dollars, and to repudiate the balance of their debts. If silver should go up to its old price of 129 to 130 cents an ounce the silver movement would loss all the advantage which was expected from it, because then silver dollars would contain 100 cents of silver, instead of 50 cents, which is necessary to the success of the attempted revolution. The weeks went by, and the paper did not come. The Portuguese began to send complaints to the newspaper. The publishers had received no monty, so they could not understand his plaints. At last they were notified by the San-Francisco postoffice authorities that in the postoffice was an advice of a registered letter addressed to them and they were asked to call for it. They replied they had never received the order. This they did. Then the postmaster of the country town declared the Portuguese had obtained a money order for only $1.50. This $1.50 was paid to the newspaper people, but then the Portuguese came forward once more, displaying a money order for $2.50.

This dollar discrepancy had to be investigated. Postoffice Inspector Motley H. Flint made a long journey and worked like a beaver. At last it was shown it was all an accident, that the postmaster of the country town had not risked his place and good name for $1. But the government wants its affairs so conducted that there shall be not a shadow of suspicion of wrong-doing, and the matter had to be rigidly investigated. By carefulness in such small things, is secured the smooth running of that enormous business, the United States postoffice system.

The Grindelwald Conference.

BERNE, July 28.—The Grindelwald conference opened here today with a long address by Dr. Lyman Abbott of Brooklyn upon the subject of "Anglo-American Arbitration." Dr. Abbott earnestly urged the formation of a permanent supreme court of judicature to deal with all disputes, and he said the leaders of public opinion in America favored this plan. It was for the Anglo-Saxons, he continued, to set the example of substituting law for war and reason for brute force, and the time for this was ripe. Dr. Gibson, the president of the Free Church Congress, warmly supported the position of Dr. Abbott.

Fairbank Will not Pay.

NEW YORK, July 28.—N. K. Fairbank of Chicago has declared his intention not to pay the judgment which David Belasco obtained against him in the Supreme Court for $16,953, based upon a claim for services rendered in transforming Mrs. Leslie Carter into one of the leading actresses of the day. He has served notices of appeal to the appellate division of the Supreme Court.

ATHENS, July 28.—A large body of Mussulmans, supported by Turkish troops, engaged in pillaging the Adomati district of Crete, has been attacked by 1500 insurgents. The latter drove the Mussulmans and Turkish troops out of the district, inflicting serious losses.

Six soldiers from the army post at San Diego sailed to the Coronado Islands, about fifteen miles off the harbor, the other day. They carried 22-calibre rifles. Landing on one of these barren, rocky islands they found it literally covered with rattlesnakes of all sizes. They shot between 100 and 200 of the reptiles and brought the skins and rattles back to their quarters as proofs of their valor among snakes. Thousands of rattlers abound on these islands.

Not content with the many language now spoken, a Southern California man has gone to Mexico to gather together the remnants of the Otomi language and prepare a dictionary. It does seem as if, had this language-seeking Californian attended the Populist and Demo cratic conventions, he would have been satisfied that we already have a sufficient variety of languages in our midst without importing Otomi. And the way in which English was murdered at the conventions was enough to impel any self-respecting linguist to become grammatical home missionary on the

Two of the finest date-palm trees in the city, at the southwest corner of Hill and Seventh streets, have been ruthlessly chopped down to make way for store buildings. It is a pity that in such cases owners of property do not donate fine ornamental trees of this description to the parks, when they are making improvements. The art of moving large trees has been brought to perfection, so that few are lost in transportation nowadays. Among large trees that have been successfully moved in this manner are those in the small the large fan palm in front of the Ar-

The total registration in the county up to last night reached 32,888, the returns showing the registration in this city to have reached the handsome total of 20,050; county districts, 12,838.

During the last ten days of registration, County Clerk Newlin will keep his office open until 10 o'clock at night for the accommodation of voters. The Great Register will close August 10, and no liberty-loving citizen should lose his vote through neglect. The registration in this city shows conclusively that Los Angeles has more than 100,000 popula-tion; the basis of computation through-out the Union is five persons to each voter; this gives Los Angeles a population of 100,250, and twelve days yet remain for registration. A conservative estimate would place this city's population at 110,000.

Judge Van Dyke has handed down an important decision in the matter of an action of the people against the direct tors of the Big Rock Creek Irrigation District, upon the accusation of an individual. The court holds that the ac-tion is brought under the wrong section of the Penal Code. This proceed-ing was under sec. 772, which is summary and arbitrary in 'character and can legally be exercised only in cases where fees are appropriated or there is refusal to conduct the affairs of office. The proper proceeding in the cause under consideration would have been under sec. 758. This section of the Penal Code gives the accused the right of trial by jury, and processes of court that enable the defendant to summon witnesses in his own behalf. The mo important point in this decision is that der this section require the finding of indictment or accusation by grand jury. The same findings are entered in the proceedings against the Trustees of Long Beach.

Col. A. D. Cutler, president of the Cutting Fruit Packing Company of San Francisco, which owns the Colton cannery, has written a significant letter to nd in San Bernardino, in which he says: "Supplementing what the writer said to you on Thursday, we are now in a position to advise that our friends at the East, who are accustomed to deal largely in California fruit products, dried and canned, advise us of such condition of affairs there as to practically compel us to draw in our horns to a great extent, so far as manufacturing and otherwise providing an outlet for California fruits go during the present season; in fact, we think the present low prices for all these products will be lower and lower from now until election, especially if there is the smallest probability of McKinley's defeat. We need hardly say to you that such a re sult would be very deleterious to the fruit interests of the State generally, and particularly to those of Southern California, that depend so largely on fruit and have no other products to fall

IN NEW QUARTERS.

THE MCKINLEY CLUB DE MANDS MORE ROOM.

irst Meeting of the Club in the Hall n West First Street—A Crowded louse Shows the Need of Bigger

The McKinley Club met in its new quarters on West First street last evening for the first time. Some time before 8 o'clock the rooms were jammed to overflowing with members and friends, anxious to take part in the business and listen to the speeches that it had been announced would be given. The rooms were tastefully decorated with flags and bunting, with an excellent portrait of Maj. McKinley at each end of the hall.

In the absence of President Flint, the chair was occupied by Mr. Burgoyne. It was decided that an assistant secretary would have to be employed by the club, to give his entire time and attention to the care of the clubrooms, and the general business of the organization. There was an evident difference of opinion as to how this official should be selected, and what his compensation should be, but after an animated discussion, the question of salary was referred to the Executive Committee and the club proceeded at once to ballot for the two men who had been nominated for the place—Maj. Fairbanks.

The club listened to an offer made by a Mr. Van Rensaler, who announced himself as an erstwhile free-trade Democrat, but now a disciple of sound money and Maj. McKinley, to supply it with copies of his publication, called "Gold and Sliver," at cost rates, the same to be distributed throughout the city. The matter was referred to the Executive Committee.

Gen. Pierce called attention to the evident fact that the new quarters were entirely inadequate to the club's necessities, and moved that a committee be appointed to secure more commodious rooms. The motion was adopted and the chair named Messrs. Pierce, Austin and Willard as the committee.

Judge Luclen Shaw was called upon for an address, and responded with a short and telling argument, defining the apparent issue of the campaign, and dealing some sledge-hammer blows, in support of sound money as opposed to fiat coinage.

"Several months ago, in a public address," said the speaker, "I advised apparent issue of the campaign, and dealing some sledge-hammer blows, in support of sound money as opposed to flat coinage.

"Several months ago, in a public address," said the speaker, "I advised people to take care only to see that they secured the right sort of a nominee for President, believing then that there was but one issue, the tariff, and supposing that all men of intelligence would unite in favor of the same. The present state of affairs only illustrates the fallibility of human foresight. The currency question has forced itself to the front, the Democrats have swallowed the Populists, and we are to have a new deal all around. This silver craze, for it is in reality a craze, is but another form of the cheap money heresles which have at several periods in the history of the past twenty years, possessed some of the people of this country. The flat money' idea was one of the forms of this craze, and the free silver notion is another.

"Every one knows that the silver dollar of this country, while equal in value to a gold dollar, has only about 50 cents' worth of silver in it. The government is able, under existing conditions, to maintain the value of this silver dollar, so that it pass for 100 cents. With free coinage of silver it could not do that, nor could any nation on earth. With free coinage, a silver dollar would be practically worth what it would' bring in the market, as bullion. Your debts, for the most part would have to be paid in gold, and you would pay two dollars' worth of silver and a broker's percentage added for one dollar's worth of gold, with which to settle your obligations. Your wages would be paid in silver, worth one-half or less of its face value. That's what free coinage of silver means, stripped of its pretensions and robbed of the glamour with which smooth-tongued orators surround it."

The Judge was warmly applauded, in the course of his address, and at its close, when the club adjourned to met

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

OFFICE OF THE TIMES, Los Angeles, July 28, 1896.
BANKERS AND BORROWERS.
There is compilant among would-be borrowers in Los Angeles that banks are more than usually particular about making loans, and that, in fact, it is almost impossible for the average bor-rower to obtain accommodation just at present, unless he can get several good ments. In discussing the money indorsements. In discussing the money situation at the recent national con-vention of the New York State Bank-ers' Association, President J. G. Can-non-gave some good advice to the bankers. His remarks are reported by

Bradstreet's as follows:
"He said that, too frequently, when a tradesman or a farmer goes to his banker to secure a loan, he is met with a refusal, on the ground that there is a scarcity of money, or he is informed that, because of the scarcity of money, scarcity of money, or he is informed that, because of the scarcity of money, he must pay a high rate of interest. This, he said, is a poor policy to pursue, especially if money is not scarce. The banker should rather carefully study the conditions that surround his customers, and when refusing advances should frankly and honestly give his reasons for so doing. If a farmer, for instance, is raising only one crop, and that crop likely to fail, thus obliging his banker to wait for his money an entire year, he should be advised by the bank at maturity. Or if a merchant is selling to a class of trade in a community that is undesirable, he should be cautioned and advised regarding this whole subject. In other words, Mr. Cannon continued, the banker should be looked upon by his clients the same as a good family physician is looked upon by his patients, and there should exist between the utmost confidence."

COMMERCIAL.

DEPRESSION IN DRY GOODS BUSINESS. The report of the H. B. Clafflin Co., the great New York wholesale dry goods house, for the half year ending June 30, 1896, is interesting as portraying the conditions ruling in the dry goods trade during hte first half of year. After paying dividends at rate of 5 per cent. on the $2,600,300 first preferred stock, and at the rate of 6 per cent. on the $2,570,600 of sec-ond preferred, the surplus for the $3,829,100 of common stock was only .41 33,829,100 of common stock was only .41 of 1 per cent. as against 5.67 per cent. In the preceding six months. After paying the half-yearly 3 per cent, on the common stock, therefore, the surplus is now reduced about as much as it was increased in the autumn of 1895.

MILLIONS OF MATCHES. The Diamond Match Company, which has about all the wholesale groors tied up with contracts in such a s..ape that they are unable to handle the goods of any other firm, has opposition which may break it. The millions of Edwin Gould, who owns the Continental Match Company, have been turned against the trust, and the conflict is waging very bitterly. The Grocery World recently published the following in regard to the big fight that is now in progress between these companies Diamond Company practically "The Dramond Company practically refuses to sell its matches to any wholesaler handling Continental matches, and this has done much to keep the jobbers in line. Mr. Gould has met this, however, by buying large quantities of the Diamond Company's matches and selling them to the jobbers cut off by the trust.

"The purchase of this supply of Diamond brand matches has been going mond brand matches has been going."

mond brand matches has been going on during the past twelve months, and is said to have accumulated to such an extent that the Continenal Match Company has three large warehouses completely filled with goods made by completely mired with goods made by the trust.

"One obstacle which the Continental Match Company encountered in placing the Continental match on the market was in the refusal of customers to change from one brand to another. When wholesalers finally began to push the product of the new company the trust refused to sell to any wholesale house which handled the goods of the Continental Match Company. The latter corporation is now in position to either flood the market with Diamond matches and break the price, or he can peddle them plecemeal to wholesalers who have been blacklisted by the trust. The Continental Match Company is in for a hard fight aginst the trust. It is pushing to completion a new and extensive plant at Ogdensburg, N. Y. This factory is located there because it is near the timber supply, where wood can be obtained cheaply. The nachinery is now being placed in the factory, and work will begin there within a few weeks. This addition will more than double the capacity of the company.

"One of the methods of the trust has been to make yearly contracts with the wholesale dealers, by which the latter pledged themselves to handle no other brand of matches. Heretofore the trust has had little difficuly in renewing these contracts, but during the past few months several large houses in Chicago and other western sites have refused to renew contracts which had expired. One local jobber, when asked his opinion as to the effect of the fight, expressed the opinion that the facilities of the Diamond Match Company were much more modern and expensive than those of the Continental; hence the latter he thought could scarcely hope to compete with the statement that during the last few trust.

SUBSTITUTE FOR GLASS. time ago, under the head of "Science and Industry," The Times published a paragraph referring to a substitute for glass which is used in skylights. for glass which is used in skylights. Referring to this paragraph, a company known as the New Wire-wove Roofing Company, Limited, of London, writes to The Times enclosing a sample of the material referred to, of which they are the original patentees. They state that the material is now extensively used in many government and municipal buildings, owing to its power of controlling the temperature of buildings. The material which is known as "duroline" is a translucent glaced material, and is a non-conductor of heat. It is claimed to be unbreakable, perfectly flexible, strong and durable, and will stand extremes of heat and cold.

It weighs six and one-half ounces to the square foot. It is said that this material has saved several buildings from destruction by fire. The fine wire work remains intact and prevents burning material from falling through and spreading the flames. It is also of value in skylights, because it is unbreakable.

The company also sends a sample of a new wire-woven opaque roofing

The company also sends a sample of a new wire-woven opaque roofing material known as carboline, which is claimed to be an excellent substitute for slates, galvanized iron, tiles, laths, plastered ceilings, etc. This material weighs eight ounces to the square foot. Those who desire samples of these materials can obtain them from the abovenamed company. named company.

OPENING FOR IRON WORKS. In OPENING FOR IRON WORKS. In connection with the movement on part of the merchants and manufacturers to advance the prosperity of the city by increasing the trade and manufactur-ing resources, the importance of en-deavoring to establish iron works in Los Angeles should not be overlooked. The Commercial Bulletin, referring to the possibilities that lie in this direction,

Commercial Bulletin, referring to the possibilities that lie in this direction, says:

"We have in the hills within one hundred and fifty miles of this city iron ore as good as any that exists. It is easy of access by merely building short spur lines from the main line of railroad, but something more is needed. To utilize this ore wemust have a cheap fuel. For smelting purposes oil will not do, and the coal here is of inferior quality and it is impossible to import coke. But in Southwest Utah there lie extensive beds of excellent coal. These deposits lie nearer to Los Angeles than the Virginia coal beds or Pennsylvania coke is to Chicago. And yet coke is delivered in Chicago for $2.50, while here if the Utah coal could be delivered for even $5 per ton it would be possible to make pig iron in Los Angeles for $13 per ton. At that price we could control the trade of the Pacific Coast, which, while not very large, is important when it is remembered that we could compete with either Chicago or Pittsburgh. After the pig iron is made then the cheap fuel afforded by oil would serve to develop the many industries which have pig iron as their base."

FOOD ADULTERATIONS. Less than 000 of 8000 samples of drugs and foods

FOOD ADULTERATIONS. Less than 1000 of 8000 samples of drugs and foods taken from retail establishments in all perts of the country and examined by the New York State Board of Health were found to be pure, or could be rated as good. A writer in the Youth's Companion says:

"In Pennsylvania the commissioner of the department of the dairy and food found adulteration in a long list of articles. Java coffee was the name given to wheat and barley hulls roasted with sugar. Ginger was found to be adulterated with ash, rich hulls, rice flour and cayenne pepper. Grated pineapple terated with ash, rich hulls, rice flour and cayenne pepper. Grated pineapple had in it starch waste and salleylic acid. An article sold as maple sugar was made of glucose diluted with water. Butter, cheese, lard, tea, preserves, spices and other articles sold as pure, showed that the adulterators had been at work. This is not only a fraud of a mean type, but a grave menace to the public health."

INCORPORATIONS. The San Fernando Methodist Princeral nando Methodist Episcopal Church has filed articles of incorporation. Its pur-pose is to maintain divine worship at San Fernando and hold the church San Fernando and noid the church buildings, estate, etc. Duration is to be for fifty years. No capital stock. Following are the seven trustees named for the first year: S. J. Kobler, R. H. Maclay, H. C. Hubbard, R. H. H. George Skewes, H. P. Kelly, M. E. Griswold.

Boston Offers Gold.

WASHINOTON, July 28.—The Boston banks again came forward today with an offer of $1,000,000 in gold coin to the treasury, and Philadelphia offered $300,000. If the department gets all in sight the balance will be raised to $112,000,000. The withdrawais today were $200,300 in gold coin, and $26,044 in bars, leaving the balance about $106,832,673.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Shares and Money.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) NEW YORK, July 28.—The stock market today was in most respects the same as Mon-day in point of its professional character and the sagging tendency of prices. The volume the sagging tendency of prices. The volume of business was fair, judging by the recent standard, but the increased dealings were not due to commission orders. London was a fairly large seller throughout. The distribution of trading was better than usual recently and considerable attention was paid to some of the usually-neglected shares, in every instance at the expense of values. The opening was weak in response to lower London prices for international stocks and selling for that account in this market. The market continued feverish the greater part of the day, and the extreme low points represented declines from Monday's final figures, extending to 3½ in Consolidated Gas. Sugar led the active stocks with an extreme loss of 2½ and closed at the lowest. Trading in bonds was duil, marked weakness prevailing generally. The sales were $488,000. Among the principal losses were Oregon Improvement firsts, 3; Northern Pacific preferred consol fives, 2 per cent. Pacific preferred consol fives, 2 per cent, Government bonds displayed marked heavi-ness on dealings of $101,000. Silver certifi-cates were dull, but steady on transactions of $12,000.

New York City Bonds.

NEW YORK, July 28.—In accordance with the advertisement calling for 19ds for $3.805,-188 of 3½ per cent. bords of the city of New York, Comptroller Firth opened the tenders today. The aggregate of the bids, twentywe in number, amounted to only $1.01,000, the prices ranging from par to 100.5, the latter for only $10,000 of the issue. The result was very discouraging to the Comptroller, at whose suggestion, a year ago, it was decided hat future issues of bonds should be made payable in gold, the rate of interest being at the same time increased from 3 to 3½ per cent. In Brooklyn, $1,535,000 of 3½ per cent. gold bonds were to have been awarded today, but as only two bids had been received, it was decided not to open the tenders until September 13. London Financial Market.

NEW YORK, July 28.—The Evening Post's London financial cablegram says the stock markets were flat today, closing at the lowest. The settlement shows a comparatively small account, and contansoes on Americans were 3 per cent. The weakness of the position here appears to have been much exaggerated in cable reports to America. It is true that there are big differences on Americans to face, and the absence of bear operations also gives an element of weakness, but nothing serious is really apprehended here. Americans were flat, closing at the lowest. The combination of bankers to arrest gold shipments has had little effect on prices of securities, not exactly because their power to do what they propose to do is questioned, but because all such action is regarded as artificial and temporary.

GENERAL EASTERN MARKET.

Grain and Produce. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE) CHICAGO, July 28.—There was a good trade in wheat and a fairly active market. The feeling manifested early was fairly steady, all things considered, but a weak spells set in later. Good buying by several of the larger sellers of yesterday absorbed the early offerings, but increased realizing followed, and in ings, but increased realizing followed, and in the absence of support prices weakened. Cables were rather disappointing, early advices showing a decline of \(^{4}\mathbb{Q}_{2}\)d, which, in the face of the fact that prices were maintained on this side yesterday, was taken as an evidence of weakness. Another depressing factor was the absence of bids for cash on foreign account, and then bids to the interior were said to have received more ready acceptance. The break in corn was also felt in wheat to some extent. The weather was more favorable, being clear and warm in most sections of the winter-wheat belt, and the forecast is for seasonable conditions. Corn was again weak and still further declines occurred. There was a fairly active market inoats and an unsettled feeling. Hog products were weak from the beginning of the session to the end. Though heavy in feeling, the to the end. Though heavy in feeling, the trade was light and the decline which was the result of it, was chiefly in lard and ribs. The leading futures closed as follows:

Boston Wool Market.

Boston, July 28.—Meager sales and a general listlesaness are the characteristics of the wool market just now, and the outlook is far from reassuring. Advices from western points indicate that holders there are inclined to meet the views of castern dealers, but the latter, as a rule, are refusing to take any more wool at present. Many woolen mills in New England are still closed, and large orders that are looked for have not yet come. Ferritory wools are nominally quoted the same as before, and few quotations in any grades have changed. Selling prices are as follows: Territory wools—Montana, fine, medium and fine, 10@11; scoured price, 30. San Francisco Wine Market.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The situation in the local wine market is at present the heme of much anxious speculation. Those tho have wine to sell claim that the heavy in the local wine market is at present the theme of much anxious speculation. Those who have wine to sell claim that the heavy losses in the grape crop this year will so affect the wine product that there will be very little available for export. They are consequently raising prices and making demands that greatly disturb the exporters. On the other hand, those who wish to buy wine insist that the partial failure of the grape crop has in reality been a benefit to the wine men, as it will allow them to dispose of their old stock at figures which could never have been commanded under ordinary conditions. While buyers and sellers are discussing the condition of affairs from antagonistic points of view, a quiet but important investigation in reference to exports and adluterations is in progress. It will be remembered that recent reports from all parts of the State showed that the grape crop of California had suffered severely from the frost. A careful and extremely systematic investigation showed that the grape crop of California had suffered severely from the frost. A careful and extremely systematic investigation showed that the wine product of this year will be relatively in the same proportion to that of last year. At first glance this condition of affairs was looked upon as an extremely bad one for the wine men. Reports of their stock, and provent a dangerous over-supply. It was argued that the reports were given currency simply to influence the market. Prices advanced and the buyers of wine began to grumble. They claimed to know that most of the wine at normal prices without trying to secure a double advantage. In full sympathy with the first reports was a second series, in which it was said that the demand of the home market would be left for the export trade. This announcement, as a matter of course, led t ties of California wine are being sold her under French labels. In a majority of in-stances the label and not the wine is bought, and wine-sellers claim that those who indulg-in this sort of business are naturally very seriously hurt in the advance in price which has been made to the export trade.

For Better Government.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Organization Committee of the league for a better city government was held in the rooms of the Merchants' Association last evening, some twenty men being in attendance. Judge Henry I. Lee presided and Fred L. Alles served as secretary. After an informal and lengthy discussion of various plans of organization a committee of five was appointed to prepare and complete plans for submission to the general organization. This committee consists of Sherman Page, Dr. Joseph Kurtz, Octavius Morgan, S. B. Lewis and Fred L. Alles. Within a week the committee will probably be prepared to report, and then a meeting of the central league will be held and a permanent organization effected. For Better Government.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MATTERS. At a meeting of the School Board last evening, Trustees Arnold, Walker and willett were present. The Wilson building was ordered repainted, and the fence repaired. For this work bids will soon be invited. A sum not to exceed $500 was voted for the improvement of the laboratory of the High School. Bids for the supply of fuel, coal and wood for the coming year will soon be called for. A STREET FIGHT.

The unusual spectacle of a street fight was witnessed on Fair Oaks avenue today. It occurred between two young fellows, Harry Hill and Bob Barnes, who had been on a drinking bout together during the morning, and who had thus first worked up a maudlin friendship for each other, and then a hostility that led to blows. Barnes was the aggressor, and in the City Jail he now awaits with timely patience the arrival of sobriety and the hour of his trial for disturbing the peace. Meanrime, it is a matter of wonder to some people and of no surprise to others how the two men were able to acquire so thriving a jag in this temperance town in so short a time.

Waters was for years one of the leading attorneys and politicians of this city, and here he reared a family of children who made a host of friends among the young people of the city. Mr. Waters received a call to the higher post of duty of claim adjuster of the Southern Pacific railroad, and he removed his family to Berkeley.

There Miss Helen, the heroine of the romance, was a student in the High School. There was a greater attraction outside the school, a young scenic artist by the name of Charles F. Thompson. He was distasteful to the parents, however, who forbade him entrance to their home, believing Miss Helen, who is but it 8 years of age, to be too young to assume the duties of matrimony. WHITTIER, July 28.—(Regular Correspondence.) The Pickering Land and Water Company is now doing the wise thing for Whittier, and the company is making the effort to develop more water. Work is now fairly under way driving a tunnel near the head of Sycamore Cañon in the Puente Hills some distance above where the last flow was obtained. Indications for a flow of water are already good. If a sufficient amount is obtained it can easily be piped into the present system without pumping. This year is a tester for water systems, and it will please the people to know that the town company will endeavor to supply the future needs of the growing city.

The second property of the Secondary of dend of 4 per cent. on the investment. At that time, in fixing the water rates for the year, the Trustees made several reductions and imposed a rule that the company must furnish meters to all who preferred water at meter rates. The company contested the rates on the ground that they would not provide for the just income to which it was entitled under the law. The statement made by the Trustees was investigated by Judge Campbell, and he held that the new rates would give the company an income of $800, that it was the province of the Trustees and not of the court to determine what a just compensation was, and he therefore decided in favor of the city. At that trial the company attempted to show hat $5000 a year for wear and tear on the plant was not in the statement furnished the Trustees, Judge Campbell refused to admit it in evidence. The company appealed the case on the ground that the Judge had erred in accepting as a just income $500 on an investment of $500,000. No decision has been given by the Supreme Court on that appeal.

Meanwhile another year came around and the Trustees were again called on to fix rates. The company presented a statement similar to that of the previous year, except that it added to the annual expense $5000 for wear and tear on the plant. The Trustees then established the rates of the year before, which, according to the company's statement, would entail a loss of $4200 on the company's statement of the company statement was incorrect. Judge Campbell held the statement of the company to be correct and cancelled the entire list of rates.

Whether or not the city will appeal the case is not known. An appeal would put the city in the peculiar light of having two cases in the Supreme Cour with the same points of law involved.

Ordinance No. 235, fixing the annual tax rate, was read for the first time and referred to the City Attorney. The rate is 80 cents on the $100, or 20 cents on the $100 less than the rate was last year. With this levy of 80 cents the city will have $18,004 with which to run the city government the ensuing year.

The much-talked-about street railroad motor franchise came up again for consideration. Dr. J. R. The remonstrance drew out a spirited discussion, but the Trustees finally laid the petition on the table.

The bid of E. I. Tolle of $10 for a street-railroad franchise under ordinance No. 232, and as per notice of sale of franchise, dated June 22, 1896, was accepted. Following this action, ordinance No. 232, granting E. I. Banning said he could not help the matter of water and, in the conversation that followed, accused Winther of being very "smooth" and repeatedly told him he must not try-to land on Catalina. Winther and his party put the boat into a cove and cast anchor, intending to remain aboard the boat for the night at some distance from shore. A small boat with deputies hovered about the place and kept rowing around the fishing party. Later the latter hoisted anchor, sailed away and into another cove where they spent the night without further disturbance.

SANTA BARBARA, July 28.—(Regular Correspondence.) The sound-money Democrats met again last evening at Judge Day's office and completed an organization by electing D. Anderson permanent chairman and S. H. Martin secretary. They adopted the name of Sound Money League and will meet regularly every Monday evening. One of the objects of the league is to give expression to individual views on financial questions and to put those views to as practical use as possible during the approaching campaign. The majority of the members are in sympathy with McKinley in regard to his financial views and will no doubt render him valuable service on election day. They do not indorse the action of the National Democratic Convention in regard to the financial plank and that far they expect to be regarded as bolters by the wing that succeeded in inserting a financial plank which they regard as disastrous and undemocratic. They do not indorse State or local Republican principles, but will probably join in a national movement to help the Republicans save the nation's credit.

The local silver Democrats are satision's credit.

The local silver Democrats are satisfied with the action of the Populist Na-tional Convention and will join hands in a big ratification demonstration as in a big ratincation demonstration as soon as certain speakers can be secured from Los Angeles and other points. There is much local speculation as to who will be the next Congressman from this district. L. J. Rose has been here looking the field over to see if there is any chance for him to get the Democratic nomination for Congress.

him to get the Democratic nomination for Congress.
Jack Boyce is still the talk for the State Senate on the Republican side, while the county officials wear a self-satisfied air which indicates that they have heard something recently concerning the county government law that is satisfactory to them and all others who are now in office. It may be a disappointment to some that county offices will not be in the political pot this year, but political interest will not be at all wanting this fall. People are preparing for a campaign of education which promises to be the most interesting event of the past quarter of a century.

LIGHTNING FLASHES.

A. Hayman was circulating a petition this morning addressed to the managers of the Consolidated Electric Company, expressing sympathy with their business-like movements, and offering good will. It was signed by nearly all the business men of the city. Superintendent Diver of the Citizens' Railway drove up and requested the privilege of signing it. Full battery currents flashed between the two for a time, but passed to the ground without serious injury to the machinery. Two double rows of newly-peeled trolley poles now grace State street for five blocks, and Mr. Diven says his company has a full trolley system now on the ground. Electrician Hall and his assistant, Mr. Luckenbeck, arrived today, and Maj. Bonebrake will be up on tonight's train. Tomorrow the transformation of the mule-car line will commence in earnest. LIGHTNING FLASHES.

THE CLARK-FAST CASE.

There were some interesting developments in the Mrs. Clark vs. Salathlel Fast case today in the Superior Court. W. J. Stafford was an important witness. His testimony was seconded by Mr. Fast, Mr. Stafford declares that Mr. Fast sent Mrs. Hatch, an attorney of Los Angeles, to call on Mrs. Clark after the death of her husband, to pay her a sympathetic visit and incidentally to learn all about her husband's nativity, age, business affairs, etc., for which Mrs. Hatch received $20. He says Mr. Fast collected the full amount of the Clark if the insurance policy, $5000, pocketing the money, and when he returned to Santa Barbara, he told Mr. Stafford the same services of the same services of the same services of the two seach. THE CLARK-FAST CASE. the money, and when he returned to Santa Barbara, he told Mr. Stafford what he had done and said it was just like finding it. Mrs. Clark brought suit to recover her equity in the policy, Mr. Fast having paid some $1400, and added other expenses, making the total about $1800. The case went to the jury this evening at 4:30 o'clock.

POMONA, July 28.—(Regular Correspondence.) The meeting Monday evening in Armory Hall for the permanent spondence.) The meeting Monday evening in Armory Hall for the permanent organization of a campaign Republican club was attended by fully two hundred staunch Republicans and business was the adoption of a constitution and bylaws. Stoddard Jess nominated John E. Packard for president, in a neat little speech. Mr. Packard was then chosen for the leadership of the McKinley Club of Pomona. S. M. Haskell was elected first vice-president; Willard L. Goodwin, second vice-president; P. J. Dreher was chosen secretzry and Charles M. Stone treasurer. The precident of the club was requested to appoint an executive campaign committee of five—one from each of the five voting precincts. During the evening Prof. N. Saunders of Pasadens, who has for some months been acting in the capacity of pastor of the Universalist Church of Pomona, made a stirring talk. The next meeting of the club will be on Monday evening of next week at the same place.

There was a meeting of the silver forces at the old McComas Hall last evening, to organize a campaign club. A chairman, secretary and other officers were selected, one each from the four parties represented—Democratic, Republican, Populist and Prohibitionist. Talks were made, an organization effected, officers elected, committees appointed and another meeting appointed for two weeks later at the same place. The chairmen are: George W. Merrill, A. D. Thatcher, F. D. Green and A. L. Taylor; the secretaries, C. I. Lorbeer, T. J. Barnes and J. W. Lee; the Executive Committee

SATURN'S RINGS.

Especially Beautiful Now-Wonder of the Heavens. According to Lewis Swift, director of the Lowe Observatory on Echo Moun-tain, these July nights are of especial interest to people astronomically in-"To see certain heavenly objects well, and under the best conditions," said Dr. Swift yesterday, "it is necessary to properly time one's visits to an observatory. This week the planet Saturn presents itself most auspiciously. Though it will be visible for several weeks longer, yet the best views can be obtained just now, as his three rings, be obtained just now, as his three rings, even the inner transparent one, are to be seen through a good-sized telescope. "This interesting planet is rivaled in grandeur by the glories of the Milky Way, which also is now at its best, its situation in the heavens being at this time most favorable for its study. "The magnificent cluster of 4000 suns in the constellation Hercules, which the also be seen at this time, and added to all these, the spectacle of suns double, triple and quadruple, makes up a sky of surpassing telescopic splendor. "On Friday and Saturday evenings of the present week, the moon, rising late, will allow time for observa-tion of all these celestial beauties."

UNCLE SAM'S REVENUES.

HE WANTS A MONOPOLY OF THE MAIL BUSINESS.

uperintendent Beamer's Circular of of Western Lines Discuss Grain

The railroad authorities see that the United States postoffice department meant business when it announced that the regulations against the carrying of mail matter by the railroads, without having it pass through the postoffice must be strictly enforced. This viola-tion of the postal regulations of course means financial loss to the government. Superintendent Beamer of the Southern California has issued a circular to railroad employés, announcing that the regulations must be obeyed, in so far that henceforth the only mail matter that can be carried unstamped is that which appertains strictly to the busi-ness of the road and communications from one employé of the road to some from one employé of the road to some other, reports, etc.

The regulations say the only mail matter which railroads can carry thus, unstamped, is that which appertains to the particular train on which it is carried or some part of its cargo. There is still friction because of this regulation, for most railroads have not conformed in spirit and letter thereto.

GENERAL MANAGERS. CHICAGO, July 28.—The general managers of the western lines met today for the purpose of taking some action calculated to stiffen grain rates, but they had poor success. While the meeting was in session it was announced the Missouri Pacific had reduced the rates between the Missouri and Missippi rivers to 4 cents and that the Great Western had taken another slice out of the rates between Kansas City and Chicago by reducing the rate to 7 cents, a cut of 2 cents. This reduction goes into effect at once. No action toward meeting it was taken by the other lines, but there is a general feeling that they will be compelled to make the same rates as the Great Western. Among the grain men the opinion is that the rates will be reduced still more in the near future, some holding that the rate will yet be 10 cents from Kansas City to New York. CHICAGO, July 28.-The general man

A meeting of the Colorado lines i the Western Passenger Association wa held today for the purpose of deter mining the running of several excur mining the running of several excursions from the eastern territory of the Western Passenger Association. It was decided to run several excursions during next month. The excursion business to the West had been lighter this year than for many years, and the roads are very anxious to do something to increase the volume of triffic. There is considerable feeling among the lines of the freight association against the officials of the Joint Traffic Association because of the refusal of that organization to rescind its action regarding the reduction of rates on corn from Missouri River points to New York. The cut was made some time ago, and was from 40 to 23 cents. The Central Association roads tried hard to have the reduction removed, but the joint traffic people were firm, and said that the immense amount of cribbed corn in the West justified the reduction.

that the immense amount of cribbet corn in the West justified the reduction The result has been, the general roads claim, that the Gulf lines have beer claim, that the Guir lines nave oeen compelled to take an active part in the fight with the result that they are getting the bulk of the traffic and taking from both the western and central roads immense amounts of business that immense amounts of business that would otherwise have come through Chicago. The Central Committee people are inclined to lay all the blame for this condition of affairs on the shoulders of the Joint Traffic Association,

VALLEY ROAD PROGRESS.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—Tracklaying is being pushed on the San Joaquin Valley Railroad south from a point ten miles from the San Joaquin River. It will be completed to that point by August 15, on which date the bridge there is to be finished. Meanwhile, grading from the river to a mile north of Fresno is covered, the work being carried on at different places. The last of the seven engines received are being set up and one or two of them will be put in service next week from Stockton to the end of the track, a distance of over 100 miles. From ten to fifteen carloads of wheat are being hauled daily on the San Joaquin Valley road, and forty cars can be placed at the disposal of the farmers if required. The obstacle to their employment is the absence of warehouses for the reception of the wheat, the shippers being compelled to haul the grain at once to the cars on the track. This difficulty will be soon overcome in a measure, as private parties are building warehouses along the line of the road.

the corner of Second and Spring streets, will be thrown open. At 6 o'clock dinner will be served, the first meal in the new clubrooms. Until the formal opening members will not be admitted, as the workmen would be greatly impeded by the presence of visitors.

No expense has been spared in the finish and decorations of the club's new home. White cedar is employed in the woodwork and the prevailing color of the walls is an olive-green. The frescoing is rich and handsome, and the furnishings will be luxurious. Sleeping rooms are provided for the accommodation of members who desire to stay at the club. The culinary arrangements are admirable and ample enough to provide for 500 persons at a time.

The club will afford to its members every possible comfort and convenience. The library, the lounging-room and the billiard-room are particularly attractive and the view from the windows of the dining-room is magnificent.
